Khrushchev Reiterates Bomb Threat

'People... Trying to Increase
Tension... Should Remember'

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev warned the West today that the recently exploded Soviet hydrogen bomb "can be considerably increased" in power.

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV
... blasts Ike

The Soviet Communist party boss repeated the statements he made in India after the test explosion that the new Russian weapon "was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives."

Khrushchev's H-bomb warning came during reports he and Premier Bulganin made to a joint session of the Supreme Soviet parliament on their recent trip to India, Burma and Afghanistan. The speeches bristled with attacks on "Western colonialism."

The Moscow-Frankfurt telephone line over which this story was being dictated was broken by the Soviet censor for five minutes after Khrushchev's statement on the hydrogen bomb was mentioned.

Khrushchev said that although "we do not want to boast about our military and technical strength," he wished to remind the West about the recent Soviet hydrogen bomb explosion.

"The power of this weapon was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives, and it can be considerably increased. People who are trying to increase tension should remember the results of this test."

SAYS IKE INTERFERING

Khrushchev also charged President Eisenhower with "crude interference" in the internal affairs of the Communist-ruled countries of eastern Europe. His blast against Eisenhower was occasioned by Christmas messages the president and other leading Americans broadcast to the east Europeans.

Khrushchev said the American Christmas messages, which he said were "incompatible with the Geneva spirit."

RESPECTS PRESIDENT

"It leads to the incitement of passion," he declared, adding that "I speak about President Eisenhower in such a manner unwillingly, because I respect him so much."

Khrushchev declared that agreement on disarmament has been "hindered by a change in the position of the United States."

He charged that the U.S. was not discussing a reduction of armaments but was "putting on the first level only the proposal of President Eisenhower at the Geneva conference about the exchange of aerial photographs."

"How does it differ from military intelligence? It differs in no way at all."

ATTACKS WEST'S PACTS

Bulganin assailed such Western-sponsored defence alliances for Asia as SEATO and the Baghdad pact as "colonization in a new form with aggressive aims."

The premier also hailed 1955 as a "definite turning point in the relaxation of world tensions" much of this due to Soviet efforts, and called anew for outlawing of atomic weapons "including rocket weapons" (Continued on Page 2)

DULLES RIDICULED FOR GOA STATEMENT

MOSCOW (UP)—Nikita Khrushchev addressing the Supreme Soviet ridiculed U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' support of Portugal on the province of Goa. He recalled that America was once a colony.

"If we were to follow Mr. Dulles' record, the United States would consider herself Her Majesty's dominion," he said.

The huge audience of 1,400 deputies rocked with laughter. The audience included U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen.

Quints Party With 'Adviser'

Row With Family Now Said To Be
Teapot Tempest; Plan Early Visit

MONTREAL (BUP)—The surviving Dionne quintuplets today emphatically denied they had broken with their family and said they will go home to straighten out a misunderstanding with their parents.

YOUNG HOODS DEMONSTRATE

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Fifteen youths staged a demonstration at police headquarters early today to protest the arrest of another youth for failing to appear in police court on a motor vehicle charge.

The band of young hoodlums loitered around the police station for about half an hour demanding to know why their friend had been arrested. Police broke up the demonstration.

Peace Talks Break Down In Malaya

BALING, Malaya (AP)—Communist chief Chin Peng stalked back into the jungle today, breaking up the talks on amnesty for his forces to end Malaya's 7½ years of guerrilla war.

But in walking out, the 36-year-old rebel leader offered to end the fighting—which has cost 10,000 lives—when an "elected" Malayan government takes complete control of its military forces from the British authorities, now waging much of the fight.

Britain has promised independent rule or Commonwealth membership eventually to the Federation of Malaya, now a protectorate.

Store Sales Zoom

OTTAWA (BUP)—Department store sales registered a 5.3 per cent rise during the week of Dec. 17 as against the same period last year, the bureau of statistics said today. British Columbia showed an increase of 10.9 per cent.

$1,500,000 Building

VANCOUVER (CP)—Work on an eight-story, $1,500,000 office building will start here early in 1956, the Dominion Construction Company announced today.

Radar Speed Check Under Way on Island

SOON TO BE A FIXTURE.

Radar warning signs soon may become a permanent fixture on Island highways. RCMP warn checks may become regular in effort to stop speeders.

LAST-MINUTE CHECK of radar equipment used in today's test on Lake overpass is made by RCMP officers Inspector W. Butler and Staff Sergeant M. Lock, at headquarters.

TOLD TO 'TURN COLLAR OVER'

Port Alberni Dutch Pastor Ousted for 'Many Defects'

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (BUP)—A Dutch minister, brought to Canada to serve a community of New Canadians, has been ousted from the church.

The Rev. E. J. C. Verbeek, a minister of the Dutch Reformed Church, was brought to Canada to serve the first Christian Reformed Church at Port Alberni.

He was forced from the church on a charge of "personality weakness" and "attempts at schism" in the first case of its kind in over 100 years in the Reformed Church.

Verbeek and his wife arrived here from Holland last July. Less than a month later members of the small lumbering community's congregation brought charges of unbecoming conduct, trouble-making and untruthfulness against him.

The church (or presbytery) of the church at Vancouver decided the new pastor was unfit to serve in the church and fired him in November.

However, details of Verbeek's ousting were only made public Wednesday.

Verbeek who while attached to the Dutch church here was receiving $3,800 a year plus a house, phone and water, now lives in a small cabin in a Port Alberni auto court.

Members of the 181-member Port Alberni congregation were ready to heap coals of fire upon Verbeek's head. One member, Jan Boer said Verbeek made a mess of everything. Another, Jan's mother, Mrs. V. Boer, added "everything was wrong with him."

The clerk of the five-man governing board, Siebe Hoekstra remarked that the ousted pastor had trouble with everyone, didn't teach what the church taught and had personal defects.

The Rev. C. Schoolland, a member of the "classes" which governs the church, said the church offered to pay Verbeek two months' salary, fly him and his wife and furniture back to Holland, and then pay him 500 guilders a month for three months in the old country.

But he refused it flat and resigned from the church completely. So now he is not a minister, but he is not a member of the church.

"Verbeek was unfit to be a minister. He was trying to bust up our church... he was schismatic... we told him to turn his collar over... that was all," Schoolland said.

Mr. Verbeek said today, "I was too severe" in relation to his parishioners.

Regarding Mr. Schoolland's reported offer he said, "This is not right. It applied only if I agreed with them."

Mr. Verbeek termed the church's action "very undemocratic and very un-Christian." Of the church itself he said, "They are afraid of me." He did not elaborate.

The 27-year-old former minister had a church of his own in Amsterdam.

First Test Held Near Over-Pass

First radar speed check on Vancouver Island highways was held this afternoon on the new Trans-Canada Highway outlet near Thetis Lake overpass.

Motorists were being checked by a radar unit operated by RCMP officers from Victoria headquarters.

Other traffic officials and reporters were onlookers as the unit plotted the speed of passing cars on a meter and a graph.

It was the initial use of the $1,500 equipment on Island roads to check on speeders.

The units are used extensively in the United States and are in operation at various points across Canada.

GREAT AID

RCMP say the psychological effect on motorists is a great aid in cutting down the number of speeders, and cautioned that the equipment may become a moveable check on main Island roads.

Three compact pieces of equipment make a unit.

A box containing the actual radar equipment and an antenna is set near the road. Radar beams go across the road and the speed of a car passing through them is recorded on a registering box.

The registering box may either sit on the dashboard of a central car or hang from the rear view mirror attachment. The car may be concealed behind trees or other obstacles.

AUTOMATIC RECORD

From the registering box, the speed of the car is recorded on an automatically controlled graph. Officers need only to stop the graph after an offending car has passed and write in the licence numbers of the auto to assure a sound case.

Two police cars, or one car and a motorcycle, are used to nab offenders.

When an offending vehicle passes through the radar beam, word is flashed to a waiting patrol car or motorcycle in advance of the speeding vehicle.

The waiting patrolman flags down the guilty driver and issues a speeding ticket.

190 Aspirins Fed to Boys, Both Survive

NEW YORK (AP)—A 40-year-old mother fed her two young sons 190 aspirin tablets Wednesday night following a quarrel with her husband, police said, but frantically summoned help when their suffering wrenched her heart.

The two children, Bruce Blackwell, 8, and Keith, 6, were taken to hospital in serious condition. They were reported improving today.

Police quoted the mother, Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell as saying that she planned to take her own life after the children died.

She told officers she fed each of the children 95 aspirin tablets and that they lapsed into comas.

Soon they appeared to be suffering terribly, she said, and she couldn't stand it any longer. She called police and begged for help.

Townsend To Quit RAF, Train Horses

BRUSSELS (AP)—Group Capt. Peter Townsend, former suitor of Princess Margaret, soon will vacate his job as air attaché here and leave the RAF, the newspaper La Nation Belge said today.

It said Townsend probably will become a horse trainer or the French Riviera, possibly for the stable of Prince Aly Khan.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

OUR FATHER, our God, we thank Thee for every evidence of Thy presence in our world—for the voice of conscience, the innocent joys of children, the sense of justice in human hearts, the goodness in men's lives, those nameless yet remembered acts of kindness, love and courage which form part of our daily life. Through Jesus Christ we pray. Amen.

Red Speech Fosters Hate, London View

By STANLEY FRIDDLE

LONDON (Reuters)—Western diplomats here view today's Moscow speeches of Marshal Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev as further shots in the campaign the Kremlin is waging to inflame anti-Western feeling throughout Asia.

This view is maintained despite denials by the Soviet prime minister and Communist party secretary that one of their aims during their recent Asian tour was to promote hatred of the Western powers.

The Soviet leaders' repetition before the Supreme Soviet today of many of the bitter anti-British statements they made in Asia may well reopen the efforts recently made by some political and press quarters here to stop a scheduled visit by the two leaders here in April.

The charge by Khrushchev that Britain had "robbed India by perpetrating poverty, famine and ignorance" will be especially resented here where there is popular pride in Britain's grant of independence to the country in 1947.

Bulganin's view that 1955 marked the turning point in the relaxation of world tension is not shared here. British officials maintain that the Soviet leaders have themselves deliberately prevented translation of the "Geneva spirit" into greater East-West co-operation by the opening of new cold war fronts in Asia and the Middle East.

2 Die in Crash

CAMBRIDGE, O. (UP)—A four-motor plane crashed and burst 16 miles northeast of here today.

The Ohio highway patrol said first reports were that two persons were killed.

The patrol said it received information the plane was owned by the Gulf Refining Co.

Members of the Freeport Volunteer fire department reported the plane burst into flames when it crashed.

... QUINTS

apartment in northwestern Montreal last night for several boyfriends. One report said a youthful, blond man in his early thirties let himself into the apartment with a key.

Edwards said maybe he should take that as a compliment. The nearly bald financial officer, who is in his late 40's, said he was the "youthful, blond man." He explained that he went to pick the quintuplets up in his car to take them a few blocks to his own apartment, and they loaned him their door key so he could "go out quietly and see if it was safe for them to leave without being stopped by reporters and photographers."

ENJOY SELVES

When he found the coast was clear he ushered them out and drove them to his home where the girls spent the evening laughing, joking and playing a radio and record player with him and his wife and "a small mixed group of friends," Edwards said.

One report today said Mrs. Rose-Marie Girouard, the girls' married sister who lives at Niagara Falls, Ont., was on her way here to try to patch up the family troubles. The Girouards' telephone did not answer today but Edwards said that if the report was correct, "it's the first I've heard of it."

Edwards said the girls, whose quintuplet sister Emilie died in August, 1954, after an epileptic seizure, were happy together here and "certainly not brooding" over reports that they have made their father angry.

"They're ebullient," he said. "They are typically Gallic, French-Canadian girls. They are bright and they are very good company—always finding something to laugh about."

The quintuplets refused to be interviewed personally. Since reporters learned where they were living they have been showered with notes pushed under the door asking scores of questions.

In all but one case—that of a Toronto Telegram woman reporter who has followed their story since they were babies—they have pushed the notes back with scrawled answers to "see Mr. Edwards." They also have politely refused to talk to reporters on the telephone and refused to be photographed.

They have turned down several bids to get them to appear on television.

Edwards said he was trying to persuade them to pose for still photographs to satisfy photographers who have been trying for months to "shoot" them, but they might not make up their minds about that for some weeks.

Meanwhile, three brothers of the quintuplets, two in Toronto and one in St. Hubert, Que., supported their father in his censure of the four sisters earlier this week.

"INTRUDERS" BLAMED
Victor Dionne, 19, an electronics student here, said he is "sick of the whole business." He agreed with his father that "intruders" are responsible for internal trouble in the family.

"We don't want their (the quintuplets') money, we just want the family to be together. These people that are interfering are very powerful."

"When I was at college I used to bring my friends home for parties," Victor said. "The quintuplets used to sit and laugh and make fun of them and then run up to their rooms."

"Why they act as if they are queens or something."

LYTTON, B. C. (CP)—A faulty hose line and a spark from a pump were blamed today for a blaze which destroyed an Imperial Oil warehouse and threatened this Fraser canyon town of 1,200 with disaster.

No one was injured and no estimate of damage was available.

The warehouse was part of a bulk distribution centre, serving gas stations along the canyon road. It stood next to huge storage tanks containing nearly 65,000 gallons of gasoline, diesel and heating fuels.

The fire started with a roar about 8 p.m. PST Wednesday as barrels of oil exploded inside the warehouse. Volunteer fire fighters, without chemical extinguishers, cordoned off the area and let the structure burn as the tanks blistered.

TRAINS HELD UP

A freight train and the CNR's crack Super-Continental—heading eastward from Vancouver 170 miles to the southwest—were held up for more than an hour as flaming oil, running downhill, ignited cattle-loading chutes and corrals beside the tracks.

N. E. McClaskey, one of the first on the scene, said workmen were filling small storage tanks with oil for delivery to service stations when fuel from a faulty hose line was ignited by a spark, apparently from a pump.

"Within minutes the building was a mass of flame. Fortunately, there was no wind or the Imperial Oil storage tanks and two Shell Oil tanks on adjacent property would have exploded."

Also menaced by the blaze was the British Columbia Electric Co. power plant.

Woman Guilty Of Baby Selling

NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. Rachel Baker, 64-year-old Canadian grandmother, was found guilty today of conspiring to violate the state law in an across-the-border baby selling racket.

She was found guilty in a court of special sessions and was scheduled to be sentenced Jan. 20. Mrs. Baker, of Montreal, faces a possible maximum sentence of three years in jail.

She was accused of selling Canadian children for adoption to American families.

Daniel Dionne, a 23-year-old checking clerk in Toronto, said his father has become sick because of the quintuplets' attitude.

Daniel is married and with his family of two children lives in a two-room flat and shares a bathroom with three other families. Asked how much financial help he receives from his sisters, Daniel lifted his shoulders.

"You can see for yourself. What do you think?"

In St. Hubert, Oliva Dionne Jr., 19, enlisted in the RCAF, said his parents have a right to be upset because the quintuplets did not phone home Christmas Day.

"I called . . . so did all the others who were not at home. The quintuplets should have done like the rest of the kids."

He said the sisters' money "may have made a difference" in the way they feel about the rest of the family.

"But I don't really know. I'm just guessing. Dad knows, though."

Slight Tax Cuts Scheduled in '56

Economic Boom Will See Additional Reductions in 1957; Provinces Get More

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's surging economy will likely lead to small tax cuts in 1956 and bigger ones in 1957, a possible general election year, federal informants said Wednesday.

They also said the big economic build-up will mean higher federal payments to the provinces in 1956 in the final year of the existing federal-provincial tax rental agreements.

The latest official estimate is that the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—rose in 1955 by $2,400,000,000 to an all-time high of $26,400,000,000.

Federal forecasters believe there will be another big rise in 1956, perhaps not as big as the record 1955 increase, but large enough to boost the gross national product perhaps to between $27,500,000,000 and $28,000,000,000.

REVENUE JUMP LAGS

The increase in national wealth widens the fields which the government can mine for tax yields. However, officials said there is always a lag between the increase in national production and federal revenues.

For one thing corporations have the choice of paying taxes on their previous year or current year operations. Many are paying on their 1954 operations because profits were lower. They will have to pay taxes on this year's profits in 1956.

Finance Minister Harris estimated last spring he will have a deficit of $160,000,000 this fiscal year based on a gross national product of $25,250,000,000. With the economy rising beyond his estimate he recently has revised his deficit estimate downward.

Federal authorities said that next year the rise in population will require heavier government outlays for family allowances, old-age pensions, health grants and other social programs.

PAYMENTS HIGHER

Payments to the provinces under the federal-provincial tax rental agreements also will be higher. The pact calls for higher rentals when production and population increase.

This year the overall payments may total about $320,000,000, down some $2,000,000 from 1954 because of the 1954 decline in production. Next year the total may increase by about $25,000,000 because of this year's rise.

It now appears there may be only a small decline in overall defence spending so that total budget expenditures for 1956-57 may be about the same as the current year—approximately $4,500,000,000.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's fisheries scientists will meet here Jan. 4 for three days to discuss the latest research findings aimed at aiding the country's $70,000,000-a-year fishing industry.

which have been recently developed into weapons of inter-continental power."

Launching into "colonialist" charges against the West which he and Khrushchev repeated often during their tour, Bulganin charged that the cultural and political backwardness of Asian peoples was due to "the colonizers who have been mercilessly exploiting them and have brought them only poverty and suffering."

Lenin, Bulganin said, had predicted that "the time will come when the hundreds of Asia will become an active factor in world history."

That time had come, and Asia had risen. Khrushchev included Canadian minister for external affairs Lester B. Pearson today in his attacks on President Eisenhower and other western leaders.

Khrushchev said: "All the friends of peace were highly impressed on the result of our trip but in some countries there were hostile reaction and various attacks against us—especially in England and the United States while the Canadian foreign minister made a short-sighted declaration."

Khrushchev may have been referring to a speech Pearson made at a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club in Ottawa Dec. 8, in which he said statements made by the Russian leaders in India were "almost an insult to the intelligence" of their audiences.

Woman's Fire Death To Be Investigated

WINNIPEG (CP)—Mrs. Katharine Listmayer, 56, was burned to death Wednesday in her small home six miles north of Sprague, Man.

RCMP said her husband had gone into the bush to cut logs early Wednesday and when he returned their home was in flames. Police are investigating the cause of the fire.

Mrs. Listmayer's body has been sent to Winnipeg for an autopsy. Sprague is 110 miles southeast of Winnipeg.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's fisheries scientists will meet here Jan. 4 for three days to discuss the latest research findings aimed at aiding the country's $70,000,000-a-year fishing industry.

Nike Now Guards 17 Cities in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army's Nike guided missile anti-aircraft program has been stepped up to the point where new batteries are going in operation around U.S. cities and military installations at the rate of several a month.

Without disclosing actual figures, army spokesmen said today that the deployment of the high-reaching, supersonic missile batteries is "going along well and we are meeting requirements in training programs" for Nike battery crews.

Up to now, about 17 U.S. cities have Nike protection, ranging from Norfolk, Va., northward along the Atlantic coast, across the northern border area toward Seattle and down to Los Angeles.

EUROPE NEXT

Meanwhile, the army is preparing to send some Nike batteries to danger points outside continental United States. It announced recently that batteries are to be installed in Alaska, which faces Russia's Siberian bases only a few minutes after jet plane flight, and to Okinawa, the island off the Red China mainland being built into a huge complex of American airdromes.

When defence needs for the continental United States, Alaska, and Okinawa are filled, the army will begin to provide Nike defences in the European area, where the

Byrd's Little America Under 62 Feet of Snow

LITTLE AMERICA (AP)—The United States flag has been raised once again over the desolate remnants of Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd's first two camps in the Antarctic.

Explorers from the navy ice-breaker U. S. S. Glacier arrived here Wednesday to find only the tops of two radio towers and five other poles sticking above the snow which buries the earlier camps.

The radio towers were originally 70 feet tall and were erected in 1928 at Little America I, Byrd's first camp. With only eight feet of the towers remaining above the surface, this camp now lies under about 62 feet of snow and ice.

Little America II was built on top of the original site. Five wooden poles from the second camp, now 40 feet below the snow, protrude above the surface.

The Glacier was the first vessel of Operation Deep Freeze to reach the original Byrd camp. Experts aboard surveyed the Ross sea ice shelf to find an appropriate site for the new camp which will serve as a base for U. S. Antarctic scientists.

BLOCKS OF PROPAGANDA

Outside Paris stock exchange, panel after panel of political posters are arrayed for voters in the official election- eering for the general elections to the National Assembly Jan. 2.

5,381 CANDIDATES FOR JAN. 2 VOTE

France's 955 Election Lists Include Jehovah's Witness

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA)—Despite a complicated system of voting lists, for the first time since the liberation the French nation is showing passionate interest in its general elections.

This is borne out by record attendance at political meetings in the capital and the provinces. The national conscience seems to have awakened.

The French now seem aware that the issues are grave. This is not a question of voting for a social policy a little more to the left.

When the French go to the polls Jan. 2, they will commit the country's future for a period of five years in North Africa, in Europe and in the world, where peace is still full of menaces.

But Monday's national elections are not expected to solve France's unstable political situation.

Neither the centre-right nor the centre-left alliance of parties is expected to get a workable parliamentary majority.

So the political scene probably will still be bedevilled by the same old situation which produces a change of government every seven or eight months.

Some Candidates 'Fantastic'

As a result of political alliances, the Communists are isolated on the extreme left.

The "Republican Front" of former Prime Minister Pierre Mendes-France is resting principally on a series of alliances between Socialists and Radicals.

The centre right grouping of the most recent premier, Edgar Faure, consists of the M.R.P., moderate and Gaullist alliances.

And over on the extreme right is the Poujadist list. Pierre Poujade is the "little man" who led the "peaceful insurrection" last February of 300,000 little businessmen and shopkeepers against the prevailing tax system.

The final total of lists presented to voters is 955, or 200 more than in 1951. There are

Keynote—'Things Must Change'

"Things much change" is the campaign keynote. The themes: help for the younger generations; reform of military service; autonomy of overseas territories; American-style guaranteed wages and a higher living standard.

The Communists will continue trying to abolish the present system and make no bones about it. The Poujadists have no program; their idea is to obtain dissolution of the next assembly and establish what they nebulously call the "Estates General" of the people.

Housing shortage is a major issue. Building and slum clearance have lagged far behind promises made five years ago.

Mendes-France has declared he would not hesitate to forbid continued construction of luxury apartments in order to build the yearly quota of 240,000 to 350,000 homes for workers and lower income groups.

This is typical of dynamic Mendes-France, the anti-alcohol milk-promoter who rose almost overnight from obscurity, fell even faster, and is now climbing again over the backs of his former friends. His "fight to the finish" with his once-close friend Faure is an emotional highlight of the campaign.

It's the first time the youth of the country has loomed so important in the political picture. There's talk of raising the minimum age for leaving school from 14 to 18, of revising school programs and emphasizing technical instruction.

The outcome is anybody's guess. Mendes-France's own newspaper Express, publishes the findings of the "Institut Francais d'Opinion Publique"—the French Gallup Poll. To the question: When the new government is constituted who would you favor as prime minister? the results showed:

Mendes-France, 27 per cent; Faure, 10 per cent; Antoine Pinay, 8 per cent.

Other personalities including de Gaulle, Communist Leader Guy Mollet total a total of 11 per cent. Twenty-nine per cent gave no answer at all.

Whooping Crane Flock Boosted By 7 in Year

28 Migrate, One Bird Lost

AUSTWELL, Tex. (AP)—All but one of the adult whooping cranes in the world's last flock have arrived at the Aransas national wildlife refuge for the winter. The missing whooper is considered lost for good, refuge director Julian Howard said.

Twenty-eight whoopers returned to the Gulf coast this fall from the Great Slave Lake region of northern Canada.

Twenty of the birds are adults, and eight were born in the last year. The colony numbered only 21 last winter.

RCAF, 50,000 Strong, Now Biggest Service

OTTAWA (SOP)—Canada's youngest service, the Royal Canadian Air Force, became the biggest when its payroll swelled to 50,000 regular personnel this year, the RCAF's year-end report said, Wednesday night.

Throughout the year, combat squadrons at home and abroad carried out extensive training programs with other NATO members, while the air transport command circled the globe with VIP passengers and more than 24,000 pounds of freight.

Helicopters came into their own, the report said, with the formation of 108 Communications Flight at Bagville, Que.

"In Europe, the move of No. 1 Fighter Wing from England to Canada's 12-squadron air division at Marville, France, brought the RCAF's four Sabre jet fighter wings together," the report said.

"The Mark 6 jet fighters continue to replace earlier model Sabres in Europe. The Mark 6, powered by Canadian designed and built Orenda 14 engines has more punch than the older types."

At home, the two Maritimes squadrons took delivery of new P2V-7 Neptunes—one of the most deadly anti-submarine aircraft in the world.

MURDER CASE PRE-JUDGED, SAYS CROWN

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP)—Crown attorney Lorne Jordan said Wednesday he is angry about press and radio reports that Earl Scrivner, 38, fatally wounded in a Christmas Day shooting, absolved his wife in a death-bed statement.

Mrs. June Scrivner, 38, is charged with the murder of her husband, who was shot in the chest with a shotgun.

Police said reports that Scrivner absolved his wife of blame in the shooting were incorrect. The reports, Mr. Jordan said, were prejudicial to the case.

He said in an interview: "I'm going to find out where the report came from. It was definitely prejudgment."

Ottawa Aids Addition At Vancouver Airport

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council Wednesday accepted a $568,416 offer by the federal government for construction of new terminal building facilities at International airport.

Also approved in the airport expansion program was a $117,238 expenditure by the city for new roads and parking space.

The program recommended by the city's Technical Planning Board, includes a new 24,000-square-foot passenger building, additions and alterations to the existing terminal building and new roads and parking space.

A special committee was set up by council to put a price tag on the airport in preparation for reopening negotiations for its sale to the federal government. Under the expansion program the new building will be rented to the city by the government for about $22,000 a year. At the end of 20 years, ownership would revert to the city.

A special auditorium advisory committee, headed by Ald. George Cunningham, received a report Wednesday from a Vancouver firm of estimating engineers that architects' cost estimates for the huge downtown project are essentially accurate.

Over-all cost, including architects' fees, now is estimated at $3,053,984. This figure includes $438,484 for basement garage construction, money for which will come out of a parking meter reserve fund and will not be charged against the $2,750,000 auditorium by-law.

British Tabloids Not Too Bad Press Council Assures Readers

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—British newspaper readers, who dearly love their tabloids, were reassured today that the popular press isn't as bad as it is sometimes cracked up to be.

To the defence of the irrepressible little dailies, often criticized for sensationalism, came the General Council of the Press, an organization set up by the newspaper industry to keep a watchful eye on press standards. In its second annual report, the council says it would be wrong to condemn the popular press "root and branch."

There was much truth in some criticisms of the mass-circulation papers, but there were "very real virtues and values" too—the exposing of injustices, the befriending of the helpless and the giving of advice.

The council defended the fight of newspapers to print "the lustier and more violent aspects of life."

But it deplored "the objectionable exploitation of public interest in the Royal Family by certain newspapers and periodicals."

It rejected a proposal that it be armed with disciplinary powers like those of the British Medical Association and the Law Society.

It suggests that a code of conduct be evolved and adopted in time by all British journalists. "It would be a long and difficult process, because it involves questions of taste in which there is so much room for honest difference of opinion," the report goes on.

"But in justice to the Royal Family and the nation, the process must be taken in hand."

The defence of the popular press is part of a broader effort to clear up public misunderstanding of British journalism.

Sir Linton Andrews, chairman of the council and editor of the Yorkshire Post, says that trying to eliminate discreditable practices should not be the only aim of the council. "We think it our duty to encourage a fuller and fairer appreciation of the merits of British journalism."

Advice From a Friend

MR. PEARSON'S LATEST utterance on China may have been widely overlooked or little considered during the holiday season but it was of the highest significance. He says, in effect, that the time has come to recognize the actual facts in China and end the present diplomatic charade in which the government of the world's most populous country in the United Nations.

In plain terms, Mr. Pearson is recommending the recognition—though not, of course, the approval—of China's real government.

His statement must have been prepared for an American magazine weeks or months ago. Since he wrote his article events have suddenly confirmed his general thesis, as perhaps he expected.

The so-called Nationalist Government of China, marooned on its island, recently attempted, single-handed, to frustrate the will of the United Nations, used its veto as a fictitious Great Power in the Security Council to veto admission of Outer Mongolia and thus prompted a Soviet veto of the whole plan for 18 new members.

It was only a later Russian proposal, setting both Japan and Outer Mongolia aside for the time being, that permitted the other 16 nations to be accepted.

The able diplomacy of Mr. Pearson's deputy, Mr. Paul Martin, was largely responsible for solving the original deadlock but these proceedings at once revealed the absurdity of Nationalist China's position in the world forum. Clearly it has become intolerable that the rump government of Formosa should continue to masquerade as the government of all China. The time is rapidly approaching, as Mr. Pearson foresees, when the actual facts must be formally admitted, as they already have been admitted informally.

Many or most of the Western nations have long favored the recognition of the Peiping government and would have recognized it before now but for the opposition of the United States.

The Eisenhower Administration has opposed recognition mainly for political reasons at home. It is trapped by the slogans and commitments of its election campaign in 1952, when Mr. Dulles talked of "unleashing" Chiang Kai-shek against the Chinese mainland. Since then the United States has been attempting, in fact, to detach itself from the mainland altogether, has securely leashed Chiang in Formosa out of fear so far to acknowledge in form what it is doing in fact. It does not formally recognize the real government of China yet negotiates with it on the neutral ground of Geneva.

This is the unrealistic situation which Mr. Pearson evidently wishes to end as soon as possible.

It would be quite wrong, however, to suppose that in proposing the recognition of China's real government he is affronting the United States. On the contrary, the American government must welcome this sort of advice from a friendly neighbor, for it helps to solve a highly artificial problem of domestic politics. It serves to educate the American people in the facts of life which, for political reasons, have been blurred and often denied in Washington.

That, no doubt, is Mr. Pearson's main intention. Significantly enough, he chooses to make his views known not in a state document or formal speech but in a magazine of mass circulation, reaching millions of American readers. He is speaking, as a good neighbor, directly to the American public. And assuredly he would not have done so unless he was satisfied in advance that he was not thereby offending the American government.

In plain terms, Canada and other foreign friends of the United States are attempting to ease its political dilemma by persuading the American people that the present posture of affairs in Asia simply cannot continue. By its own intransigence the Formosa rump is making certain that this posture will not continue much longer.

Highways and the Norman Trip

IN ONE OF THE BATTLEMENTS of the Tower of London a unique device is built into a narrow stairway. It is called a Norman trip and it consists of a step much steeper than others in the flight.

As the Yeoman of the Guard explains, it was so constructed to cause an attacker, chasing a defender to the higher reaches of the castle, to stumble. When his foot struck the uneven step, he fell forward, with his head bowed and his neck exposed to the defender's axe or sword.

The lethal effectiveness of the Norman trip diminished as its use became widely known. The attacker learned to watch his step and to ascend slowly.

This year the B.C. highway department has constructed its own unavoidable Norman trip as it continued rebuilding the Malahat. The obstruction, some distance north of the long hill, was well marked by warning signs—among them a somewhat surprising personal apology from the minister for the inconvenience caused the motorist.

And while that variant of a Norman trip existed, serious highway accidents on that stretch were virtually eliminated.

In time, of course, the Malahat will be put into good repair. Certain of the more dangerous bends will have been removed and greater speeds will be possible. That condition, coupled with the development of more and more powerful cars will permit an increasing number of drivers to race faster to their own destruction and the destruction of others.

The better the roads, the more horsepower in the cars, the easier it appears for people to kill themselves. Of course good highways are essential and high-powered cars are going to keep coming onto the market whether they are necessary or not.

But while safety organizations study means of protecting motorists by such features as safety belts, armored headgear, shatterproof rearview mirrors, padded dashboards and other innovations, perhaps some thought should be given to the major cause of road fatalities—and that cause is speed.

As long as motorists are physically able to drive faster than they can think or react, these mechanical safety devices will be of limited value only.

Has the time arrived to build fine highways with provision for Norman trips on the road surface? A fifty-foot stretch of deep potholes, well-advertised by road signs, has an amazingly depressant effect on a fast driver. It might even save his life or the lives of others—as a similar wavy design has in some U.S. highway towns.

Mr. Strydom and the Senate

BY A SOUTH AFRICAN VARIANT of the gerrymander, Mr. Strydom's Nationalist Party has virtually reconstituted the Union's Senate.

That chamber now is almost twice as big as it was intended to be, and it represents the Nationalists heavily because a new system of electing representatives favors that party.

What has happened to the South African Senate may have certain similarities to what has happened to the Canadian Senate and the British House of Lords. But there is one specific distinction. By political accident or otherwise the Canadian and British chambers of second thought have become overweighed by one party, it is true. But neither has been consciously loaded for the sole purpose of pushing through a repugnant piece of legislation.

Such has been the objective in South Africa. Mr. Strydom's Nationalists wish to oust the Cape Coloureds from the common role of voters where the Coloureds, by Act of Union, have the same right to vote as the whites.

In order to amend the constitution and make this change, a two-thirds majority in favor of the amendment is required in both the Parliament and the Senate. Twice before the Nationalists have sought to swing this majority and failed.

Now, apparently, having loaded the Senate, they are on the brink of success. The success, however, will be costly in world opinion. It has caused grave concern among non-Nationalists in South Africa who note that two "entrenched" clauses only reside in the South African constitution. One of them guaranteed the Coloureds position on the voting roll. The other concerns the equal rights of English and Afrikaans as the official language of the Union.

If one entrenched clause can be removed, argue the critics, so can another. And in today's spirit of nationalism, what safety is there for anyone other than rabid adherents of Mr. Strydom's Nationalists?

The Last Sad Rites

ABOUT now the householder performs one of the year's most solemn rites. He removes the Christmas tree. Yesterday it was a symbol of glory, a torch of many lights raised bravely in the darkness of universal night. Today it is a few dead twigs.

Had it been left in the soil it would have grown into a towering giant of the forest. Butchered in its youth to make a brief imitation of a Roman holiday, it is not even useful for fuel. It is fit only for the bonfire or the garbage collector.

Still, it served its purpose. It made its little proclamation and departed. So will its owner, not long hence. And there will be other trees and owners to follow, only some 300 shopping days remaining before next Christmas.

How the sophisticated residents of the city spent their Christmas I cannot guess. The riotous delights of civilized people are beyond the imagination of us out here in the country. We survived the holiday in our own primitive fashion by pruning apple trees, the proper task for a countryman at this season. We worked, that is to say, with living trees while more intelligent men were dancing, I suppose, around a dead tree.

To stand on a shaky ladder in the cold wind and clip off surplus branches may seem a cheerless task at a time of general holiday, but there are compensations.

A man thus engaged may discover, for example, a robin's nest, built last spring and still in tolerable repair despite all the wind, rain and snow of eight long months. He may find within the nest a blue egg, which somehow failed to hatch, and that unlikely object will set him thinking.

A parable of some sort surely resides in the robin's deserted house and in the failure of that egg, a parable of man's own mispent year. Scorn not the blue, infertile shell. Every man, however able and successful, must have laid many eggs that failed to hatch since last spring, though his failures, unlike the robin's, were not discovered.

Man covers up the blunders of his life under the disguises of society; he may fall in everything of importance and yet earn the reputation of a renowned and useful citizen. The robin confesses his mistakes and candidly marks them with a round blue sign.

This matters little in either case. New and better men will doubtless appear to do the world's work next year. The robins, wintering far to the southward, will be back in a few weeks now. Some of them, indeed, have remained here all winter while men of more intelligent sort wisely flew on wings of metal to Honolulu.

As the lonely pruner can see for himself, the preparations for the year's work already are well under way.

The buds of apple blossoms are tightly packed, but gradually swelling. The flesh of the tree is green below the outer skin when the blade severs the twig. And, looking closely, the experienced orchardist will see, here and there, on a tiny black wafer, a mere smudge on the bark which contains another kind of egg and a virulent form of life only awaiting the sun to burst forth with ravenous appetite.

Inside that wafer, too small for the eye to count, lie the microscopic cells of next year's tent caterpillars. We cut them off and burn them ruthlessly (or sometimes forget and ram them into the pockets of our overalls where, warmed by the heat of the basement, they hatch out prematurely with disagreeable results, a pocketful of caterpillars being of no particular use to anyone.)

To the countryman even the dismantled Christmas tree is of some practical use. It makes good kindling for a bonfire to burn the prunings of the orchard and to light a pyre for the eggs of unwanted insects.

Thus, in city or country, as the tree comes down and the ornaments are put away for use a year hence, life returns to what we laughingly call normal. The Christmas spirit also is put away, locked up carefully in some secret closet and jealously hoarded, since there is never enough of it in any house to last more than a few days.

We get back to normal this week and now that the thing is finished, the proper gestures made and the convention observed, most persons over twenty years of age will feel relieved, as if they had just survived a dangerous operation.

Yes, we have got through it again somehow, we have put a brave face on Christmas, have endured many a human bore-head, suffered many false glories and now can remove the false white whiskers and be ourselves again.

So down with the dead and tinsel tree, poor victim of the holiday. Spring with all its bursting green life cannot be far behind.

TELL IT NOT IN GATH

The great historic Liberal Party of B.C. has now advised us it is too proud to fight.

It is useless to gloss over a major blunder in the face of "Social Credit Means Dictatorship." Will Vancouver voters place their confidence in a party mainly concerned with fighting over who shall lead a party that cannot "form fours" in the Legislature? Or in the L.P.P. nuisance party?

Now would be a good day to realize that only a united C.C.F. party can free B.C. from the menace of the Seth Parker Social Crediters.

FIVE SMALL FISHES?

I was pleased to note from your editorial of the 22nd inst. that you are not in agreement with the suggestion that the limit on grilse be reduced from 10 to 5.

One reason adduced for this proposal is to protect the very young coho, but as a matter of fact half of the grilse caught here are not young coho but young springs, which apparently need no protection.

The fish that do need protection are the adult cohoes and adult springs, which have been slaughtered by thousands in the last few years by the so-called "ladders" and "derbies."

If you will add up the salmon which are weighed in during the 10 weeks of the "ladder," those which are "knocked off" the ladder, and the hundreds which are caught in the finals by about 500 "anglers," scouting and dredging the Inlet, and then the hundreds of coho (nearly or ready to spawn), the figure is staggering, and it is not surprising that the Inlet is nearly "fished out"—as those of us who have been fishing there for 20 years or so, are well aware.

It seems to us that the interests that promote this wholesale massacre are "killing the goose of the golden eggs." Another factor which may be helping in the serious diminution of salmon is the wholesale slaughter of herring (the salmon's natural food) for use as fertilizer, etc.

It would probably do no good to increase the legal size of grilse from 8 to 12 inches, as some propose, for just as many would be caught, and the not-legal size fish would be returned to the water, mostly too damaged to live.

There is a good deal to be said for the suggestion of a closed season for salmon, young or adult, from, say, mid-May (when the "blues" have gone) to mid-August, though most of us "sport" fishermen would be done out of our main recreation, while the boat-houses and tackle dealers would suffer severely!

To revert to the "derbies," why not sensible sporting one-day derbies like they have in Port Alberni, with limits of rods, line-tests, etc. No fishing with telephone poles with bells on to tell you when you have a strike, stuck in a rod-holder, and 300-400 feet of wire line and a pound or two of weight!

I would be very interested to hear the views of that fine sportsman, Charles Guillet, on this matter.

LAY YOUR OWN EGGS

Reading the article on making hens smoke by vivisection, I wondered whether inducing people to eat mash and grit would make them lay their own eggs. Eggs are scarce and animals and now birds have a terrible time with these sadistic men, who think they can probe nature's ways and turn birds into smokers.

Dr. Adam Czeczawinski merits congratulations upon achieving this feat now on view at the Provincial Museum. Artists and sketchers, children and teachers can have a refreshing hour with artistic and botanical colored and uncolored pictures in several techniques.

Part of the Provincial Museum's L. Stocker collection of the flowers of Cowichan commands special attention as does the purely artistic frieze of dogwood by Mrs. L. Sweeney. Miss Mary Bryant's scientific illustrations for the forthcoming publication "The Ferns of British Columbia" by T. M. C. Taylor are yet pleasing to the eyes in the order of arrangement.

The work of about a dozen illustrators is represented, and the whole display is beautifully presented by the organizer, BETTY C. NEWTON, Secretary-Treasurer.

Testing, Testing, Testing . . .

By JOHN BIRD from Ottawa

HAVE you ever worried about slipping on a waxed floor? I have. My wife crashed on one and suffered a phibitis, as a result. So naturally my ears pricked up when I heard that the august Federal Government is bothered about it, too.

Though the Hon. Robert Winters may not actually lie awake, nights, worrying about it, his department, Public Works, does maintain a fine new testing laboratory to test (among a thousand other things) the slipperiness of waxes.

Accidents are unfortunate and costly and the Government is concerned to prevent employees from slipping, on asphalt or rubber tiles, for example.

That is the main point of a testing laboratory: to save taxpayers' dollars by testing out many sorts of materials and products bought by various Government departments, to find out which are the most economical and efficient. Chief of the testing lab is strapping Jack W. Lucas, an RCAF veteran and "all-Canadian" who has lived and worked in most parts of Canada outside Newfoundland. But his moustache is slight and fair, no "Bomber Command" job.

MANY MEASUREMENTS

The first testing lab was set up in 1892, solely for cement. Even today one main arm of the lab, the physical section, is chiefly concerned with testing concrete for such undertakings as the St. Lawrence Seaway.

But the lab tests all sorts of things I would never have thought of measuring. How far will your ball point pen or pencil write without a refill? The answer should be in miles and there's a wonderful "doodling machine" that records writing by the mile, testing it for both endurance and quality.

The pens are moved round and round in a circle with the writing advancing an eighth of an inch at each revolution, producing a pattern which an inveterate doodler like John Foster Dulles might admire.

While an exceptional pen has been known to write nine miles, the average one goes something between one and four miles without refill. Since the Federal Government, through Public Printing and Stationery which supplies other departments, is a major "consumer" of pens and pencils, it is obviously desirable to know how far they will write.

There is a test, too, for pens with retractable points to see how long the retraction system works.

How fast will "traffic paint" dry? That's the paint used for marking roads with signs such as centre lines. Answer: a good one for the purpose will dry pretty well in three minutes and be perfectly dry in 20 minutes. Saves a lot of motorists' time if traffic blocks can be removed quickly and cars drive over the lines without smearing.

NO RESEARCH

The testing laboratory is under the Engineering Development branch, so I called upon its chief engineer, Gerald Bowen Williams, at the Hunter Building, headquarters of Public Works. Brown-haired, clean-shaven, tall and rangy, Mr. Williams was until recently chief engineer in the Manitoba service. He was eager and careful to explain in general what the lab does with a good deal of emphasis on what it does not set out to do.

For example, it does not go in for research: that's the function of National Research Council. Instead, it tests the product in action. How suitable is this particular paint for that particular job? Will these foundations take the weight of buildings to be placed upon them?

Again, the PW testing lab tries out materials for its own and other departments, but not for the general public. Oh, yes, it does test soaps and detergents, for example, but it is no use your sending in a package of your favorite brand and asking, for an opinion.

I checked this point not with PW alone but with various government agencies all the way up to Treasury Board. The answer is that the government cannot recommend for or against a particular product, but can decide whether to buy it or not for some particular use. If a manufacturer wants to know why his product was rejected for that particular purpose, he will be told, but the testing lab will not issue a report. If the report was favorable, it might be used for advertising. And so on.

AMAZING VARIETY

Again, the PW testing lab does not duplicate the work of other departments. For example, it refers problems principally concerned with timber to the Forest Products Laboratories, under Northern Affairs and Resources.

But the PW lab does test an amazing variety of things from materials for wharves to electrician's rubber gloves. To see is, for me, to believe.

Ottawa and Fluoridation

The Ottawa Citizen

CITY Council's decisive approval of fluoridation of Ottawa's water supply closes the issue for all practical purposes. The Ontario Department of Health, the Ottawa Board of Health and the national medical, dental and public health associations of the country have approved fluoridation as a safe, relatively inexpensive method of preventing tooth decay, especially in children.

NO PLEBISCITE

In scientific terms the City Council is, therefore, on sound ground in endorsing fluoridation. The only real question has been whether the public should have an opportunity to voice its opinion by way of a plebiscite, and City Council has decided against this course.

It can be argued with some force that in technical matters it is best for the public authorities to make the decisions, in the light of advice given by scientists. In some instances, additives have been placed in food, as with vitamins in white bread and margarine, without consulting public opinion. Persons opposed to additives, however, can find a substitute for any reinforced food products, but there is no substitute for water. A plebiscite would have removed any suggestion of compulsion because, inevitably, it would have been tacitly agreed that majority opinion should prevail.

SCIENTIFIC CASE

As the matter has turned out, the question of a plebiscite is now academic. The scientific case for fluoridation is overwhelming. The best-informed opposition comes from a minority of scientists who object only on the grounds that the experimental period of 10 years has not been quite long enough to prove the safety of fluoridation beyond a doubt. They suggest a further five years of experimentation.

But most scientists judge the experiments already conducted in a number of cities to be exhaustive enough and fluoridation under medical supervision to be completely safe.

Since the public health authorities in Ontario adhere to this view, Ottawa may look forward in the next 10 years to a marked improvement in children's teeth, with no ill effects on health.

ADVANCING YEARS

Once I had a friend, aged 25, who said whatever came into his mind. He sat watching me one morning, while I shaved, and suddenly he said: "How old are you?" Through the lather on my face I murmured "Thirty." He watched me thoughtfully awhile, then said: "Yes, I suppose you are—you have the look of a man of 30 in your eyes." I asked him what he meant by that. "The look," he said, "of a man who has climbed to a hilltop and who sees, far below him on the other side, a tombstone; and realizes, suddenly, that the tombstone is for him." "That is not the kind of thing to say to a man when he is shaving, even if it is only with a safety razor."

The Clean White Shroud

I AM very pleased because, as a result of Christmas, we shall be getting Maclean's Magazine for yet another year.

Always, I read the editorials first. Usually, I agree with them. Even if I don't, they make me think.

The latest editorial that really makes me want to stand up and cheer is in the January 7 issue, and is called "Our Cheap but Costly Funerals."

It starts with a reference to two fairly recent news items. The first quoted an eminent scientist as saying that the time might easily come when medical advances would make it possible for human beings to live forever. The second reported the formation of the Toronto Memorial Society, aimed at ending morbid, barbaric funeral rites, and at reducing the high cost of dying.

Ruth

The editors are not overly keen on the idea of living forever. They prefer nature's ancient and wise system of cycles wherein the new replaces the old.

There are many fates worse than death, they say. And one of them is attending funerals.

After that bit of plain-speaking, they really get into their stride.

"We applaud the Toronto Memorial Society in its efforts to replace barbarism and morbidity with dignity and simplicity."

Ironically, however, it is the very people who want to live forever who are responsible for the modern funeral.

"For the whole purpose of the rite today is to make the earthly remains of the deceased look as alive—or as lifelike—as possible.

"We are prone to decry the heathenism of the ancient Egyptians who mummified four hundred million of their number and beggared their land building memorials to them. But we have long since out-Cheopsed the Egyptians. Death has become a hundred-million-dollar-a-year business in Canada."

"Unless we expire at sea or in the far north every man jack of us is almost certain to go through an undertaker's hands to be embalmed, rouged, powdered, coiffured, scented, dressed up (often in a tuxedo) and placed on display like a department-store dummy in a mahogany coffin with silver handles that is shortly to be destroyed by fire or worm rot."

"At the turn of the century it cost about $25 to die. Today the figure — is likely to be at least $500."

"Part of this is undoubtedly due to the excellent salesmanship of the funeral directors. — But the undertakers—or morticians, as they now prefer to be called—cannot be saddled with the ills of a society which, after all, they only cater to—and which, by all the evidence, has come to place more emphasis on the flesh than on the spirit."

I've quoted this editorial almost in its entirety because I think it's important and timely, and because I think it expresses the opinion of many ordinary Canadians.

Like the editors of Maclean's, I, too, would like to plead for a return to the simple dignity of the plain pine casket and the clean white shroud.

Real Estate Project Rejected by Sommers

NANAIMO — A real estate project proposed by Deane Finlayson, B.C. Progressive Conservative party leader, has been turned down by Lands and Forests Minister R. E. Sommers.

Mr. Finlayson wished to develop Hammond Island, near the Piper's Lagoon resort area north of the city, as a residential site.

Word of the refusal was received by Fred D. Marshall, secretary of Nanaimo Fish and Game Association, that had opposed the application by the real estate firm of which Mr. Finlayson is a member.

"It is the intention of the department to reserve and set apart these islands for the use and recreation and enjoyment of the public under the provisions of the Land Act," Mr. Sommers wrote to the association.

The island and other adjacent islands are in the heart of excellent salmon fishing waters.

Mr. Campbell, 60, a retired carpenter, is active and well, and his wife continues to cook for herself and her husband.

CASE LIKES PHIL BUT... WELL... IF!

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, manager of New York Yankees, came home from an around-the-world trip today, with the comment that he's willing to do some baseball trading but "I won't give my ball club away."

"I'm not going to trade that fellow Mickey Mantle," he said, "or Phil Rizzuto or Yogi Berra. They have been with me a long time and helped us win a lot of pennants."

Then Casey reconsidered and said: "Of course, if Rizzuto could better himself, I wouldn't stand in his way."

Harmsworth Trophy Race Next Summer

DETROIT (AP)—A race for the Harmsworth Trophy, emblematic of international speedboat supremacy, may be held next summer for the first time since 1950.

J. Gordon Thompson of London, Ont., has challenged the United States, which has held the trophy since Gar Wood first won it in 1930.

It is the first challenge since 1950, when Seattle's Stanley Sayres took the trophy west with his powerful 80-McShane boat. Sayres won the Harmsworth race in 1949 and 1950, the first two held after a 15-year lapse.

Thompson owns Miss Supertest II, which set a Canadian record for speed on water of 154 miles an hour this year.

Minoso Signs

CHICAGO (AP)—Minnie Minoso has forgone his usual holdout siege with Chicago White Sox and has sent in his signed 1956 contract. The Sox received his contract Wednesday from his home at Maricao, Cuba. The pact is reported to call for about $32,000, the same as he received last season when he slowed down to 288 after hitting above .300 for two years.

Exhibition Soccer

Victoria Strathconas, who will not be taking part in any Coast Soccer League action this weekend, will meet the local Butler Brothers in an exhibition game Saturday at 2 at Athletic Park.

Tonight, Strathconas will hold a workout at Athletic Park at 7.

Young Heeds Warning, Returns Team to Ice

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Kelowna Packer playing coach Moe Young came within seconds of a possible two-year suspension from hockey here Wednesday night when he pulled his team from the ice at 19:30 of the final period in an OSAHL game against Kamloops Elks.

With Kamloops leading 3-2, Young protested referee Al Swain's call against Al Pyett for holding the puck. Elks won the game 3-2.

Packer goalie Dave Gathrum was off the ice at the time as the visitors attempted to even the score. Elks' Johnny Millard got a breakaway on the empty net but Pyett went down on the puck to make the save.

Young claimed the puck had stuck up Pyett's pant leg and Swain didn't relent on his call. Finally Young called his club from the ice in disgust.

OSAHL president Jack Martin was in the stands and he went to the Kelowna dressing room to inform Young that he faced a possible two-year suspension from hockey without the right of appeal if he didn't have his team back on the ice in two minutes.

Young relented and made the march back onto Kamloops ice amid boos and catcalls from the crowd.

WHAT GOES UP...

The only trouble with this fantastic play made by Florence Goalkeeper Sergio Cervato is now that he is up that high, he has a long way to come down and has his feet where his head should be. He made the save in a game in Milan, Italy.

'IMMEASURABLE DAMAGE'

Pirie Scores British Press

LONDON (Reuters)—Distance runner Gordon Pirie Wednesday night delivered an attack on the British press after receiving two awards here as Britain's No. 1 sportsman.

Millions of television viewers saw Pirie read his prepared criticisms from notes at the presentation ceremony.

He was elected "sportsman of the year" in a national ballot organized by the weekly newspaper, Sporting Record. Television viewers of the BBC also picked him as the year's top personality.

After receiving the Sporting Record Trophy from Iain Macleod, minister of labor and national services, Pirie launched into his attack on the press and its London headquarters, Fleet Street.

Pirie said the Newspaper Sports Writers' Association, which named steeplechaser John Disley as sportsman of the year, had omitted from its list of leading sportsmen both him, Pirie, and the British heavyweight boxing champion, Don Cockell.

"Fleet Street has done immeasurable damage to British sport," declared Pirie. "A few unkind words will inflict more damage than they realize. I hope they will be kinder in future."

Pancho Segura defeated Rex Hartwig, the former Australian amateur standout, 11-9, in an extended set to run his record to nine victories as against no losses and one tie in his singles series.

Pancho Boosts Lead

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales needed only 45 minutes Wednesday night to hand Cincinnati's Tony Trabert another "lesson" 6-0, 6-4, here as their professional cross-country net feud continued.

The victory was Gonzales' seventh in 10 meetings with the former amateur champion.

Pancho Segura defeated Rex Hartwig, the former Australian amateur standout, 11-9, in an extended set to run his record to nine victories as against no losses and one tie in his singles series.

Canada's Ski Team Rated 'Best Ever'

MONTREAL — Canada's 10-man Olympic skiing team, "the best this country's ever had," left Montreal's Dorval airport late Wednesday for Europe and warm-up races before competing in the winter Olympics at Cortina, Italy, on Jan. 26.

The team, four girls and six men, were honored at a press reception luncheon before they departed.

Ken Farmer, president of the Canadian Olympic team, said he had high hopes for the small squad.

"This is a fine team, the best this country's ever had," Farmer said. "I have high hopes that they will bring some medals back with them."

Farmer's opinion echoed that of Ernie McCulloch, coach of the squad during their two-week training at Mount Tremblant, and Franz Gabl, their Austrian-born coach who will handle their training in Europe.

McCulloch said he'd be "very surprised if one of our girls doesn't bring back a gold medal (first place)."

Gabl, too, believes the girls stand the best chance of capturing a gold medal for Canada. "They're all very good," he said of the four girls, Lucille Wheeler, Anne Heggtveit, Carolyn Kruger and Gigi Seguin. "Kruger, I think, stands a very good chance of finishing near the top in the downhill, and Wheeler should do well in the slalom."

The men's team is composed of Art and Andy Tommy of Ottawa and Andre Bertrand of Quebec City in the Alpine events, Clarence and Irwin Servold of Canmore, Alta., in the Nordic events, and jumper Jacques Chabard of Three Rivers, Que.

"A lot depends on how well the four broken legs respond," Gabl said, referring to last year injuries to the Tommy brothers and the Misses Heggtveit and Wheeler. "So far they've been favoring them slightly and haven't gone all out yet."

Edmonton Thumps Alberni

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Towne Hallers, sparked by the Macintosh brothers and big Ed Lucht, whipped the Canadian champion Port Alberni Athletics 86-37 Wednesday night in an exhibition senior men's basketball game here.

More than 1,000 fans watched the Hallers average a defeat suffered last year when the British Columbia squad defeated the Edmonton club in five games in the western Canada final and then went on to win the Canadian title.

Norm Macintosh counted 19 points. Brother Don and Lucht each scored 11, as did Jack Lilja. Ron Bisset of Athletics was high scorer with 19 points, while John Kootneko counted 14 and Doug Brinham 12.

The Hallers led 47-26 at the half.

Athletics, who appeared to be affected by the change in altitude from the west coast to the prairies, tied at the end of the first half and their play became ragged in the second half.

Although it is a "fine sport catering to millions of fans," he said, it is "constantly subject to attack because of the few, who through keeping in the background, rule over the boxing domain with an iron hand."

Investigations in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and California "went all out to rid the sport of its unscrupulous characters, but with little success," he stated.

Nevertheless, he complimented Governor George M. Leader of Pennsylvania and commission chairman Julius Helfand of New York for their fight against evils in boxing.

Attendance continued to fall off in the United States, and two fight television organizations shut down, the review pointed out. They were the Eastern Parkway Arena of Brooklyn that staged Monday night TV bouts and Ray Arce's Saturday night promotions.

The review noted that New Jersey, Texas and California enjoyed an increase in the number of boxing shows staged.

Argos Accused Of Tampering

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—President Len Croth announced Wednesday that the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are filing an official complaint with the Canadian Rugby Union charging tampering with Dutchmen players by Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football league.

"We are sending a registered letter to Canadian Rugby Union secretary Harry McBrien today," Croth said.

The letter said tackles John Janelle and Nat Pagnan and halfback Bobby Kuntz have been signed by Argos without the permission of the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior club.

Basketball Dead?--Ask These Youngsters

Some of Victoria's greatest hoop stars, the likes of Art and Chuck Chapman and Muzz and Lynn Patrick, took their first baseball steps on the floor of a Sunday school gymnasium.

Once a large part of Victoria's vast basketball program, the Sunday school hoop activities declined somewhat during the war years but now show signs of flourishing again while all other hoop leagues are on the downgrade.

Representatives from seven Victoria church Sunday schools met this June and organized the Greater Victoria Sunday School Basketball Association under jurisdiction of the Vancouver Island Amateur Basketball Association.

Officers of the active and ambitious league are president, Ted Sewell; vice-president, J. N. Fraser, and secretary-treasurer, Carolyn Anderson.

The youngsters attending Sunday school classes are divided into three playing groups: Bantam, 14-15 years, Midget, 12 to 13, and Pre-Midget, under 12.

Teams from First United, Oak Bay, Metropolitan and Christ Church have entered teams in all three divisions.

One of the most active Sunday school teams is from First United, which has an excellent gym and experienced coaches in Busher Jackson, Ollie Goldsmith and Harold Turner.

First United Pre-Midgets last year won the B.C. championship in their class.

Interest is rapidly growing in Sunday school teams, other churches are adding gymnasiums and it is expected that more churches will enter teams.

All leagues will be starting the second half of their season early in January. In the first half, First United teams led all three divisions with undefeated records.

First-half standings follow: PRE MIDGETS: First United 10-0, Oak Bay 9-0, Metropolitan 8-0, Christ Church 7-0, Bantams 6-0, First United 5-0, Oak Bay 4-0, Metropolitan 3-0.

Hoodlums Survive Boxing Probe

NEW YORK (UP)—Wide-spread 1955 investigations of boxing failed to rid the sport of hoodlum control, the Ring Magazine said Wednesday in its year-end review.

Commenting upon the "unhealthy" state of the fight game this year, editor Nat Fleischer wrote, "One cannot overlook the damage done to boxing by the hoodlum problem."

Although it is a "fine sport catering to millions of fans," he said, it is "constantly subject to attack because of the few, who through keeping in the background, rule over the boxing domain with an iron hand."

Investigations in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and California "went all out to rid the sport of its unscrupulous characters, but with little success," he stated.

Nevertheless, he complimented Governor George M. Leader of Pennsylvania and commission chairman Julius Helfand of New York for their fight against evils in boxing.

Attendance continued to fall off in the United States, and two fight television organizations shut down, the review pointed out. They were the Eastern Parkway Arena of Brooklyn that staged Monday night TV bouts and Ray Arce's Saturday night promotions.

The review noted that New Jersey, Texas and California enjoyed an increase in the number of boxing shows staged.

Huskies Win

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Ron Pattee's leaping one-handed from the outer edge of the free throw circle in the final three seconds gave Washington a tantalizing 54-53 victory over scrappy Wisconsin of the Big Ten in the Washington Pavilion last night.

BROOKLYN (AP)—Karl Spooner, left-handed pitcher with Brooklyn Dodgers, signed his 1956 contract Wednesday and then left to finish the winter season with a team in the Dominican Republic.

Spooner won eight and lost six last season.

Whip Royals, Here Friday; Warriors Gain on Flyers

Seattle 7, New Westminster 2; Winnipeg 4, Edmonton 2

Plastering Pete Durham, who was a great guy when he was on our side, returns to Victoria Friday night, a villainous menace to life and limb because he is wearing the wrong sweater.

Now a member of Billy Reay's Seattle Americans, the surly defenceman who set a new Western Hockey League scoring mark for rearguards last year with the Victoria Cougars, was up to all his old tricks Wednesday night when he helped Americans to a rousing 7-2 victory over New Westminster Royals.

Durham was at his bouncing, rushing best in Seattle's surprisingly convincing victory. He rattled the teeth of a number of Royals' players, set up Seattle's first goal and kept New Westminster goalie Bev Bentley anxious with his one-man rushes.

Durham and the rest of the Americans, Cougars' bitterest enemies this season, come to Memorial Arena Friday night to continue the glowering rivalry that has sprung up between the clubs, from the players up to the front offices of both organizations.

Occupying the cellar spot in the WHL's coast division but looking anything but a cellar-dweller, Americans gave up the first goal last night but came back with three goals in each of the second and third periods to snow under the Royals. Rudy Filion and Val Fonteyne potted a pair of goals each.

Seattle's victory was an unintentional gift to the Cougars as it prevented New Westminster from breaking their second-place deadlock with the Cougars.

On the prairies Wednesday night, Winnipeg Warriors gained two points in their projected climb to second place by downing Edmonton Flyers, 4-2 before 3,400 Edmonton fans.

Warriors now trail second-place Flyers by a single point. Danny Summers, Barry Cullen and Ed Mazur scored in the first period for Winnipeg with Paul Maslek adding the fourth goal in the second period. Ray Kinasevich scored both Edmonton goals.

Canadians Loses

CALCUTTA, India (Reuters)—Don Fontana of Toronto and R. K. Ram of India put up a thrilling fight Wednesday before being eliminated in the quarter finals of the men's doubles in the Asian lawn tennis championship. They lost 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-0, to Kurt Nielsen, Danish runner-up at Wimbledon this year, and Sven Davidson, the Swedish Davis Cup star.

Sport's Wackiest Moments

By FRANK LITSKY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—The sports world was full of the unusual in 1955. For example:

In a baseball game between Lexington and Kearney in a Nebraska league, Lexington won by forfeit, all because of a German Shepherd dog. A Kearney pitcher singled in the fifth inning. The manager sent out the pitcher's jacket—in the teeth of the manager's dog. The Lexington players objected. There was an argument and the Kearney manager was ordered off the field.

He wouldn't go and the game was forfeited. Maybe it proves that man is dog's best friend.

In Sturgeon Bay, Wis., 11-year-old Rube Demmin overruled an umpire. Russ was catching in a little league game. A runner broke for home. The umpire called him out. The game appeared over. But the runner argued. What's more, Russ backed him up. Russ admitted he missed the tag. So the umpire called the runner safe, and Russ' team eventually lost the game.

From Chicago comes the story of the well-groomed thief. He broke into the hotel room of Ralph Kiner and Al Rosen while they were playing a double-header for the Cleveland Indians. The thief took some valuables. Before leaving, he also took a shave and shower.

In Milwaukee, Mrs. Mary Thompson explained how she became interested in baseball at 101. "The kids got interested last year," she said. The kids—as she calls them—are her 85-year-old son and 80-year-old daughter.

In football, a schoolboy coach in West Virginia borrowed a page from the boxing book and threw in the towel. Barrackville led Lumberport, 25-0, after the first play of the second quarter. At that point, Lumberport coach Bandy Thornton took his team off the field. "When a fighter is getting beat, they throw in the towel. That's what I'm doing," he explained.

A Chicago woman didn't throw in the towel—just money. Mrs. Titus Haffa bet $100 on a 140-to-1 shot at Arlington Park. The filly won and Mrs. Haffa collected $14,000. Why did she bet on that horse? "I like girl horses," she replied.

Two schoolboy basketball teams in Kentucky proved their versatility. If nothing more, Tilghman beat Bardwell during the regular season, 101-79. Bardwell decided to slow down the scoring when they met in a tournament, and won, 63.

In pistol shooting, Police Lieutenant Harry Reeves of

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy!

Andy, who is a prize, not a person, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions in letters to Andy will receive as prize, for the main question, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" or a 30-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia." Prizes for the secondary question will be an "American People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trails" plus "Andy's Everyday Encyclopedia."

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times, Victoria.

Andy sends a complete 16-volume set of The Children's Hour to Maryanne Botta, aged 10, of Allentown, Pa., for her question:

Does the Mason Dixon line reach right across the United States?

The original plan was to survey a boundary line as far west as the Mississippi river. But Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon got no further than 30 miles west of Maryland. There they ran into Indian trouble. The purpose of the survey had been to settle the borderline between Pennsylvania and Maryland. It seemed unnecessary to risk Indian quarrels by taking it any further.

Border disputes among the colonists arose over a 40-mile strip of territory. To the north it was claimed by the settlers of William Penn. To the south, by the settlers of Lord Baltimore. Little Delaware had already argued and won a degree of independence from Pennsylvania. Though Penn and Lord Baltimore wanted the little strip of land which was to become Delaware, they were too honorable to fight about it.

But serious arguments concerning the border between Pennsylvania and Maryland did go on for over 80 years. Finally the two colonies agreed to settle the matter peacefully once and for all. A survey was ordered from certain points which would settle the matter. You can figure out the famous boundary line for yourself. Find a map of the eastern states that you may mark up. An old road map will do. You will need pencil, compass and ruler. Now on the map find Chesapeake Bay. Delaware Bay. New Castle at the mouth of the Delaware river and Philadelphia.

Measure 12 miles on the mileage scale of your map. Take that distance to be a radius on your compass. Set the point of the compass at New Castle, Delaware, and draw a circle. Now mark off 15 miles on the mileage scale of your map. Measure this distance due south from Philadelphia. Extend the point to form a line running due east and west.

Now find Cape Helopen on Delaware Bay. Draw a straight line due west until you reach Chesapeake Bay. Divide this line in two and put a mark in the middle. Now draw a straight line from this mark due north until you reach the 12-mile circle around New Castle. You are now at the eastern border between Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Continue due north until you reach the line 15 miles south of Philadelphia. Now take your bearings and make a line running due west. You have made a map of the Mason and Dixon line. Continue going until you are 30 miles west of Maryland. This is where the survey came to a halt.

This is no easy job, even on a modern map. It was harder still for the men originally asked to do the surveying on land in 1760. Three years later, everyone was bored with their slowness. They were dismissed from the job. Two mathematicians, Mason and Dixon, took over. In four years they had gone as far as they could. They marked their famous boundary with stones. On the southern side, each stone bore the arms of Lord Baltimore, on its northern face, the family crest of William Penn.

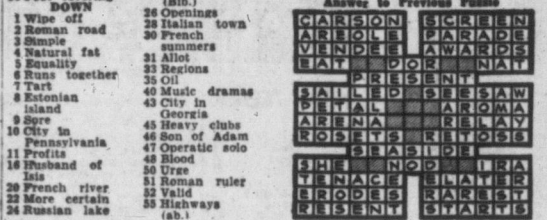

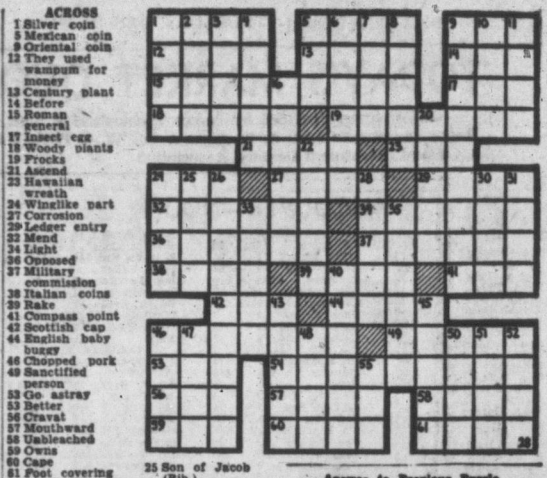

Andy sends a copy of The American People's Encyclopedia Yearbook to Naomi Massie, aged 11, of Chillicothe, Ohio, for her question:

What is a light year?

Suppose you wanted to measure the distance from Chillicothe to Columbus. Would you use a 12-inch ruler or a 30-inch tape measure? Unless you had all the time in the world, you would use neither. You would mark off the distance in miles. Chances are you would take the easy way and check off the miles on an automobile speedometer.

Now the astronomers have to measure distance in the sky. And a mile is a very short distance in the sky. Even a million miles would get us no place at all in the vast reaches of space. The sun's nearest neighbor is some 27 trillion miles away.

Measured in miles, these distances run up into pages of figures. So the astronomers needed a new measuring rod. They chose a sort of miles-per-hour measuring rod. When you

$53.4 Million Awaits Forgetful Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has $53,400,000 waiting for several thousand Canadians who just haven't bothered to claim it—some for as long as 40 years.

The money is for government securities, bought years ago, which matured without being presented for final settlement. They no longer earn interest for their holders.

The finance department, which holds the money, has no way of estimating how many people there are with rightful but still unmade claims. Most would be small investors, for the department has found that holders of big blocks of securities don't usually forget to cash them in at maturity.

The oldest outstanding securities are $4,000 in 1915 First World War bonds. There are also many First World War savings certificates.

Outstanding are $72,360 in 1915 war savings certificates and $3,000 say a place is half an hour away, you mean that it takes half an hour to get from where you are to where it is.

The astronomers geared their measuring rod to the fastest traveler known—light. On an average light travels at about 186,000 miles a second. It travels at the same speed whether it comes from our sun or from the distant stars. In one year—one light year—it travels about six trillion miles. It is far simpler to call this figure one light year.

Thousands still haven't.

MAYOR-ELECT SCURRAH TO RECEIVE ON MONDAY

Mayor-elect Percy Scurrah and not Mayor Claude Harrison will head the city council's New Year reception at City Hall on Monday from 9.30 to 11.

The Times was in error Wednesday in placing Mayor Harrison at the head of the receiving line.

Mayor-elect Scurrah will officiate even though he will not be sworn into office until the following day.

The City Hall reception is one of 11 scheduled throughout the area Jan. 2.

The main reception will be at Government House where the new Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Frank Ross, will be "at home" from 11 to 11.30 for senior government and service officials and from 11.30 to 1 p.m. for the general public.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

About 15,000 Victoria house-holders are receiving assessment notices this week. But city officials do not expect a repeat of the storm of protest which greeted the assessments last year.

Last year assessments jumped due to the provincial re-assessment program. "This year there are very few changes and those only where there have been alterations," said city assessor Alfred Joyce, "... we don't expect there will be much doing at the court of revision this year."

"Island Explorations" will be the topic of an address by Dr. Clifford Carl, provincial museum director, when he speaks to Oak Bay Kiwanis Club tonight at 6.15 in Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Officers and sergeants' mess of 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron RCAF (Auxiliary), in the RCAF Urban Centre, Yates at Quadra, will be "at home" to visitors Jan. 2 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Josephine C. Wallace, 71, 639 Yates, received slight leg injuries when in collision with a car as she was walking across Douglas at about 9.45 p.m. Wednesday.

Driver of the car which was proceeding south on Douglas was Donald Champion, 1737 Hampshire.

New Classrooms In Late January For Many Pupils

Many of Greater Victoria's 16,700 school students who troop back to classrooms Tuesday after Christmas vacation may move into new quarters by the end of January.

School board officials said today they expect contractors will turn over new eight-room Macaulay Street School, a six-room Glanford School and an eight-room Doncaster addition by the end of the month.

Early in the spring additions at Oaklands and Willows Schools also will be open. They each will provide 10 rooms.

Inaugural meeting of the 1956 school board is set for Tuesday at 8 p.m.

A 73-year-old man was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital today after falling down about eight stairs at Fairfield Hotel, 710 Cormorant, shortly after 8 a.m.

Hospital authorities said William M. Newton was in satisfactory condition. He received a cut to the right side of his head.

Contract grievance procedure between International Building and General Laborers' Union, local 1083, and B.C. Bridge and Dredging Co. will be tested at a meeting in Vancouver Jan. 6 of union and company representatives.

The union claims full contract rate is not being paid laborers working on an up-island construction job. Three labor delegates to the six-man meeting will include Clifton Parker, operating engineers' agent; Herb Fleischer, AFL organizer; and Norm Uphill of Vancouver plumbers' union.

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce has arranged a tour of homes which participated in the Jaycee's Christmas lighting contest for members of the Aged Women's Home and Victoria Orphanage tonight.

B.C. Electric buses will pick up both parties at 7 p.m. "We hope householders will have their lights on this evening," Neil Neufeld, chairman of lighting contest, said.

Alexander Hill Brown, Gordon Head, was fined $25 or five days in jail when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of driving without a licence Dec. 18 on Blanshard.

Plea of guilty on a second charge of uttering a forged cheque was entered in city police court today by Peter Webb, Victoria.

Webb, who has also pleaded guilty to passing a $60 forged cheque at MacMillan's Motor Court, was remanded to Jan. 4 when sentence on both charges will be imposed.

The second charge involved a $15 cheque cashed at a grocery store.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion will hold a holiday party tonight at 7.45 in the clubroom on Blanshard Street. There will be exchange of gifts, entertainment and refreshments.

Victoria Lions Club will hold its annual Christmas party for fathers, sons and daughters Friday at noon in Empress Hotel ballroom.

City employees and elected officials joined this week in tribute to retiring city engineer Cyril Jones who will officially end 25 years of city service Friday.

He was presented at his home with a television set Wednesday and will receive a scroll Friday bearing signatures of the mayor and aldermen and representatives of both inside and outside staffs.

Fine of $25 or five days was imposed in city police court today on Lawrence Tinnin, Brattle, California, when he appeared for sentence on a charge of carrying firearms without a permit.

Tinnin previously pleaded guilty to the charge which arose after he was apprehended about 11 p.m. Sunday while walking on a downtown street.

Court was told he was in possession of two .45 pistols and eight shells.

Resolved...

There's a revolution in resolutions this year. New Year resolutions, a tradition since the year of the newly turned page, are over.

Take the word of city residents for this.

Probing personalities, one finds people make high resolves, but fail to keep them. This is known as idealism, and is not confined to the New Year. In other words, we fail to live up to our ideas most of the time anyway, and a New Year resolution poses merely another intellectual hedge to hop.

Most persons contacted in a survey said they made resolutions, but not at the New Year, necessarily. Most admitted, however, that if they did make up minds to evolve a resolve, it would be a good time to do it.

The New Year resolution business seems to emanate from the psychological kick we all get from a bath. You start fresh.

One of the most sensible statements concerning the season comes from 13-year-old Johnny Gray, 517 Scott. He says he tries to do his best all the year 'round, and makes so many resolutions during the twelve months an additional couple on New Year is gilding the lily.

Senior Major Edith Chandler of the Salvation Army thinks New Year resolutions are "childish." Mature persons, she emphasizes, make continual attempts to keep up with their ideals, and a firm thought only once a year can contribute little to human behavior.

Government critic Derek Fraser, Rossland, said the U.S. chooses to support Communist governments which have been friendly to her, "not one which has brutally treated her prisoners."

"Why should we stab a friend in the back? The Chinese Communist government is one of the most brutal in existence."

"If we recognize it we will be letting more of its evil loose on the world. We will be letting ourselves in for a great deal of trouble... aggression from the Pacific."

Third member for Victoria, Norman Wilkinson, said since Canada and the U.S. are trading with Red China and carrying on other negotiations through the United Kingdom, it is only logical to make recognition.

The only reason the U.S. shows strong interest in Nationalist China is because of finances invested in China, another member said.

"That's the only reason the U.S. is interested in any other country," he said.

Today's sittings were scheduled for 3 p.m. and 8.30.

A STICKLER FOR PROPER DRESS, Speaker of the B.C. Legislature Thomas Irwin adjusts dicky for "boy-Speaker"

Ken Lamb of Vancouver, who is filling Mr. Irwin's position in Older Boys' Parliament now sitting here.

ALAS! MR. SPEAKER SPEAKS

By AS KENT
In matters of parliamentary procedure, his word is final. He is the Speaker of the house in the 25th Older Boys' Parliament of B.C., in session here this week.

His name is Ken Lamb, and during his two terms as Mr. Speaker he has ably interpreted Robert's Rules of Order in all matters but one—his own inviolate position as Speaker.

For two years, he learned to his dismay Wednesday, he has shattered parliamentary tradition by joining in the debate on the floor of the House.

His informant was a somewhat surprised Thomas Irwin, B.C. Legislature Speaker who admonished against such flouting of long-established parliamentary law.

"We've been doing it for years," replied Speaker Lamb after recovering from his initial shock.

But technical tips like this are among the many ways through which the boy parliamentarians learn democratic government, a major purpose in holding these sessions annually in the Legislature.

Mr. Irwin and provincial archivist Willard Ireland offer their assistance gladly, even materially.

Just before Wednesday's afternoon sitting Mr. Irwin, noting the absence of headgear on his young counterpart, presented

Speaker Lamb with one of his own black tricorn hats "to maintain the august office of the speaker and add dignity to his chair."

The hat will be passed on to succeeding Boys' Parliament speakers, but they probably will continue to cadge their black flowing gowns from lawyers or University of B.C. professors.

The only other visible difficulty experienced by Speaker Lamb was with his white dicky, borrowed from Speaker Irwin, but unfortunately too large.

Resolutions condemning Sunday sport and urging recognition by the Canadian government of Communist China were approved Wednesday at the second night sitting of Older Boys' Parliament of B.C.

Meeting in the Legislature in their annual four-day session, 48 boy members from all parts of B.C. adopted the resolutions by substantial majorities after spirited debate.

The House agreed commercial Sunday sport should be condemned because members believed, in time, it would lead to "an almost complete commercialism of Sunday," such as opening of stores and theatres.

Principle argument against the resolution was that condemnation would infringe upon human rights. But the other side was convincing in its stand that human rights could be carried to extremes and that breaking the Sabbath is breaking the law of God.

Debate was started at Wednesday afternoon's sitting, adjourned to the evening following a banquet for the young parliamentarians.

In making the motion urging de facto recognition of Red China by Canada, Denis Whitley, the member for Vancouver West Point Grey, said:

"We don't wish to further the Communist cause, but we are realistic people. Most nations have recognized the Chinese Communist government."

He pointed to Canada and the U.S. as notable exceptions.

The U.S., he indicated, is inconsistent in refusing recognition because other Communist countries, such as Russia and Poland, are recognized. Canada follows suits so as to remain friendly with the U.S., he said.

STAB IN BACK
Government critic Derek Fraser, Rossland, said the U.S. chooses to support Communist governments which have been friendly to her, "not one which has brutally treated her prisoners."

Free Licensing Seen for Bikes

Ald. Mooney Wants Fee Paid Only on First Year

A city experiment with a new type bicycle licence may be the first step toward free licensing of bikes in Victoria.

There are between 6,000 and 7,000 in the city now.

Ald. M. H. Mooney said today he will ask city council early in the new year to consider placing a permanent registration number on all city bicycles with a fee for only the first year.

Ald. Mooney says he agrees some registration is necessary for recovery of lost and stolen bicycles by police. But he will ask council to consider a permanent licence which will not have to be renewed year-to-year.

"Now that experiments are underway it is a good time to consider freeing the youth of this city from licensing fees altogether," he stated. "Children should not have to pay taxes. It is especially confusing when you have a neighboring municipality (Saanich) where no licences are required."

A similar suggestion was made to council last May by the Victoria District Trades and Labor Council. Discussions during 1955 budget sessions revealed income from bicycle licence sales was barely sufficient to meet the costs of operating a licensing office.

This year the city has replaced metal licence plates, formerly in use, with paper-thin transfers which adhere to the bike frame. They are sold at the usual price of $1 for the initial registration and 50 cents each following year.

New licences are required Jan. 1.

January Decision On Ferry

Washington State Ferries are expected to operate a summer service between Victoria and Port Angeles starting next June.

H. G. Swenson, administrative assistant of Washington State Ferries, told The Times today the final decision rests with the Washington State toll bridge authority at Olympia, which controls the state service.

"We hope the decision will be favorable," he said.

A spokesman for the toll bridge authority said a decision would be made at a meeting of the authority early in January.

"The authority is favorably disposed in this regard but no definite decision can yet be made," the spokesman said.

George Warren, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau commissioner, left for Seattle today where he will confer with Washington State Ferry officials and with R. J. Acheson, president of Black Ball Transport Inc.

Mr. Acheson told The Times his company is going ahead with plans to place a new $3,000,000 all-purpose ferry in year-round service on the run.

"I hope to have the ship available by Oct. 1 next," he said. "Meanwhile I hope Washington State Ferries will be able to resume the summer service."

Sailor Admits Police Assault

Sentence will be imposed in city police court Jan. 5 on a 19-year-old naval rating charged with assaulting a police officer last Saturday.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall remanded Dennis A. Lick, HMCS Athabaskan, for sentence after a change of plea from not guilty to one of guilty was entered today for the sailor.

Constable William Mayzes, who walked into court with aid of a walking cane, told court circumstances regarding the incident.

Constable Mayzes said that during investigation of an occurrence the previous night, he approached the accused at the top of stairs at CAC Gardens, Fisgard Street, at about 12.15 a.m. last Saturday.

He told court he asked the accused several times what his correct name and address was, and that Lick swore and yelled and refused to give his name.

As the constable went to take him by the arm, Lick brought his knee up and pushed the officer.

Three other officers assisted in escorting the sailor down the stairs and put him in the patrol wagon.

On the way to the station he lunged at Constable Mayzes, knocking him down, and then scratched his face.

Welfare Chief Dies at 61

C. W. Lundy, 61, deputy minister of welfare for the provincial government, died last Wednesday.

He held the deputy minister position since November, 1954, and had a long service record with the B.C. civil service.

Health Minister Eric Martin said: "He was a civil servant of the highest order, and his unswerving devotion to duty, and loyal and faithful administration made him loved and respected by all who worked with him."

Mr. Lundy suffered a heart attack earlier this year.

He started with the provincial government 22 years ago as a relief investigator, and rose through the ranks until he was appointed director of welfare in 1951.

He was a veteran of the First World War.

Motorist Bill Fahey was one of hundreds who "fed" parking meter unaware there was no need. (Times photo.)

Motorists Pay for Parking Needlessly

Hundreds of drivers plugged pennies and nickels into Victoria parking meters Wednesday afternoon when they could have saved their money.

The change was made after defeated aldermanic candidate Hugh Ramsay made election statements calling for the move.

As there are no meter patrols on duty Wednesday afternoon, some drivers who were aware of the situation did not pay. Others did in compliance with the law.

Mr. Ramsay reasoned that with stores closed there were adequate parking spaces.

CKDA, CJVI Closing Ranks To Fight Outsider's TV Bid

By PHIL LEE
Times TV Editor
Split and competing for Victoria's television Channel 6, local radio stations CKDA and CJVI were seen hurriedly closing ranks today in an attempt to foil New Westminster's William Rea, CKNW owner, in his attempt to obtain a licence from the CBC to operate the disputed channel.

First indications came when Mr. Rea said he had $500,000 ready to build a combined transmitter and studio in Victoria and was prepared to move his home here.

CKDA president David Armstrong declared that if his station wasn't granted the licence then he hoped it would be awarded to CJVI.

CJVI manager William Guild said he hoped the CBC board of governors would award the channel to his station or CKDA or a "combination of the two."

Originally the two local stations made application to the CBC to be awarded Channel 6 on a joint basis. Later a rift appeared when Mr. Armstrong let it be known that he was applying for CKDA only. His application, however, submitted for a high-power station, was subsequently turned down.

So it seems we'll be pretty well the same types next year as this—drat it.

Strike a Glamorous Note Even Though It's Raining

By PENNY SAVER

There was a time when raincoats were the most unglamorous part of a wardrobe. A part that did no more than to keep a coat or suit dry. The fashionable lines were covered up as long as the rain fell, and it seemed such a waste of effort getting all dressed up only to have to be covered with a sack-like raincoat. Now, things have taken a definitely different turn, and raincoats are right on top with fashion. The ones I saw today are flattering and very attractive. They're of clear plastic, so that your favorite outfit shows through, in spite of the weather. The cuffs, collar and snap-closing front panel are of a perky blue, black and white plaid plastic. They have raglan sleeves and may be belted in if you wish. The price is $2.95.

Nippy weather means time for warm hats and ear muffs. The girls are all set with the stylish ear muffs being sold in town, but the young boys, in grade school, often find that they don't have just the right hat to keep their ears warm. I saw garbardin helmets with sheepskin ear flaps that can be worn either clipped to the upper part of the hat, or down, doing a good job of keeping two ears toasty warm. Also, I saw toques of soft wool. Red, white, navy blue or royal blue stripes combined to make colorful hats that can be pulled down to cover the ears. There's a red pom-pom on top. The garbardin helmets are $1.95, while the toques are 69 cents.

For the very little girl in your house or in a friend's house, there are tiny cowgirl skirts that really make you smile to look at them. They're so tiny you wonder how they'd fit on anything but a doll. Made of brown or blue denim, they're made in four gores, with elastic at the back of the waistband. Two patch pockets have white fringes on them, and in the centre are red stones, surrounded by lead studding. In sizes two to four, they're pre-shrunk, and cost $1.95.

How does your old standby sandwich board in the pantry or kitchen look? Does it seem to have reached the stage that it should be replaced? I know, after a while, it seems like permanent fixture in the kitchen, and you hardly notice how beat up and nicked it becomes. We couldn't do without ours. In fact, we find that we need two of them. If you'd like another one, too, there's no need to go to great expense just for a sandwich board. I

TODAY'S RECIPE

HUNGARIAN APPLE PUDDING

Six cups shredded tart apples (about 4 large), 3 tablespoons fruit juice or water, 1 cup fine, soft, stale bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites, 3 tablespoons sugar.

Pare and shred apples, using medium shredder. Add fruit juice or water and blend. Add bread crumbs. Cream butter, add sugar, egg yolks, salt and beat thoroughly. Add to apple mixture and combine well. Beat egg whites until rounded peaks form. Beat in remaining sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time and continue beating until meringue is stiff and glossy. Fold meringue into first mixture and pour into a lightly greased oblong or square baking dish. Oven-poach in a moderately hot oven, 375° F., until golden brown—about 1 hour. Serve hot with hot spiced hard sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

SPICED HARD SAUCE
One cup icing sugar, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon cloves, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 cup butter.

Sift together sugar and spices. Cream butter, add sugar mixture gradually, and stir until well blended. Chill.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

We would be very short-sighted if we neglected mental hygiene when thinking of the factors which influence health, happiness and prolonged youthfulness.

Every year tens of thousands of new patients enter mental institutions in the United States. There is evidence of an ever-increasing number of mental breakdowns in our modern world. Many authorities believe that a large percentage of these breakdowns could have been prevented.

Today it requires mental discipline to survive in good condition for our current life is full of complexity, strains and conflicts of all sorts. We live in the shadow of war, and endure high costs of living, high taxes and complex social situations. Many nervous breakdowns are the direct result of prolonged worry and emotional strain.

I suppose, at times, all of us worry about things which are not too important. Even though we know better. Even when we are faced with a real worry of heartache we too often substitute worry for action. If we can do anything about solving our worries we should do so. If we cannot do anything about them, then worry will not help the situation any—so, why worry?

Worry and strain affect the entire system, and seem to be especially hard on the digestive tract. Many cases of headache, heartburn and indigestion of all sorts, can be traced directly to emotional strain. Stomach ulcers are almost always the result of worry and strain.

Your nervous system can take a lot of abuse, but when it is subjected to constant strain for long enough it finally rebels, and when it does your entire body feels the impact.

The strangest and most uncomfortable symptoms can arise from the soil of extreme fatigue.

The effects which worry can have on personality, charm, and even reason, can be terribly damaging. Yet worry is an insidious habit and, as such, holds many people in its sway.

Look at yourself frankly to see if you unconsciously have adopted an apprehensive, fearful attitude toward daily life. If so, make a real effort to correct this for the sake of your health and happiness and sane living.

If you would like to have my leaflet which gives you some practical help in overcoming the worry habit send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for "Worry," leaflet No. 64, to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

AS WE LIVE

Accident-Prone Is Not Linked to Red Hair

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

Some people seem to get all the "bad breaks" while others seem to be lucky.

(Q)—"All my life, I have been unlucky. As a kid, I was always breaking bones, knocking out teeth, getting cuts, scratches and bruises all over my body, and losing my possessions. Now, as a grownup, I am no luckier than I was when I was a kid."

"I have had several automobile accidents, none serious enough to kill me but I was pretty badly knocked about and smashed my car in each case. Just last week, I was hurrying to catch the commuter's train as I was late for work, slipped on a wet leaf on the street, and broke my ankle."

"People used to tell me, when I was young, that all redheads were unlucky and got themselves knocked about more than people with other-colored hair. I am a redhead and, like all redheads, I have a quick temper. Do you think this has anything to do with my bad luck?"—Mr. J. D.

(A)—I know your red hair has nothing to do with your bad luck and your many accidents but I also know your temperament has made you susceptible to accidents, or "accident-prone," as it is technically called.

Studies of people who have many accidents, and a comparison of them with people who have few accidents, have revealed that the accident-prone people have a certain type of personality make-up that is fundamentally the cause of their many accidents. They are impetuous, act before they think, fly into rages and do or say things they later regret, and are unsystematic about their affairs. Like you, they slip on wet leaves because they do not manage their time adequately to eliminate the necessity for dashing to catch a train.

Your red hair has nothing to do with your personality pattern. However, because you, your family, and your friends believe you will be impetuous, hot-tempered, etc. because you have red hair you have grown up without attempting to develop qualities that would make you more careful and cautious. As a result, you get yourself into all kinds of trouble because you act before you think.

Quiet Ceremony Performed

Rev. A. I. Higgins officiated at a quiet wedding Tuesday afternoon in First United Church, when Elizabeth Aiken Benzie Knight, daughter of Mrs. Myles, 1515 Morrison Street, became the bride of Thomas Walter Mayne, son of Mrs. T. H. Mayne, 1900 Neil Street.

Red ribbon and sprigs of holly marked guest pews and poinsettias and small fir trees decorated the church. Mrs. Roberto Wood, organist, accompanied Mrs. Gordon F. Moore, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered the church on the arm of a family friend, Kenneth L. Leeming, and was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Myles.

For the ceremony, the bride wore a two-piece afternoon length ensemble of dress with matching duster coat of brocade moire taffeta in candlelight shade. The V-neckline was highlighted with bead work and the extended waistline cascaded into a full skirt. The coat folded softly from a yoked back. It had a stand-up collar and pleated collar. Her small hat and elbow-length gloves of aqua velvet matched the aqua taffeta lining in the coat. Red roses and white hyacinths were in her bridal bouquet.

Attendant was Mrs. Maurice A. Kerslake, who wore an afternoon dress of mauve-pink brocade with a high round neckline and short sleeves trimmed with satin. The waistline was extended and the skirt full. She carried a bouquet of spray chrysanthemums.

Best man was B. A. Victor Thomson, and ushers, Moir McLagan and Douglas E. Smith.

A reception followed in the Old England Inn, where Mrs. Myles, in a muted pink afternoon sheath with short sleeves banded with brown mink, a small matching hat, brown accessories and orchid corsage, also Mrs. Mayne, who wore a navy crepe afternoon dress with pale pink trim, navy and pink accessories and a pink rosebud corsage, assisted the bride party in receiving guests.

A two-tier wedding cake topped with a vase of sweetheart roses was surrounded with tulle and flanked by two candelabra on the bride's table. The cake was cut with a sword. A Blair Paterson, a family friend, proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to Seattle, the bride wore a red woolen dress with black accessories, a muskrat jacket and gardenia corsage. Her jewelry of brilliant and white and black pearls was a gift of the groom.

When they return, the newlyweds will live at suite 5, 1 Cook Street.

Keep Tidbits Handy to Serve

TORONTO (CP)—A housewife who has found that the way to hubby's heart is through his stomach would be wise to keep tasty tidbits ready to serve at a moment's notice.

She need not spend every day preparing fresh snacks. Most foods can be prepared ahead of time and stored in a freezer.

Prof. E. W. Franklin of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph says there are other advantages to freezing foods. Leftovers can be saved and time and work cut by cooking in larger quantities.

Writing in a bulletin for the Ontario department of agriculture, Prof. Franklin says it is not advisable to tie up valuable freezer space with a large quantity of cooked food. Nor should it be stored for a long period because quality of some frozen foods deteriorates quickly.

He has several tips on how quality in freezing can be obtained—use only high quality ingredients, prepare carefully, package in moisture-vapor-proof materials, freeze quickly and store at zero degrees Fahrenheit for not too long a period.

Prof. Franklin says almost all soups prepared from standard recipes may be frozen satisfactorily.

BRAVO!—Those witnessing Circle Theatre's magnificent documentary on Russia, Tuesday evening, must have applauded it as one of the most thrilling shows seen on television this year.

For here was history on parade. One lived every moment from the time of the czars until Stalin. Here was no make-believe but the real thing, caught in the unifying lens of the newsreel photographer over the decades. There were the mob scenes, the executions, the fall and the rise and the passing of power, the purges, the victories, the defeats, all that was Russia and her surging millions.

Entitled "Nightmare in Red" the commentary accompanying the film was not without elements of propaganda. But the thrill for the viewers was elemental and historical. It was just "being there" for 60 minutes of history in the raw.

NEW YEAR'S DAY—KING-TV announces the first Pacific Northwest telecast of Gian-Carlo Menotti's entertaining American opera, "The Telephone," will be seen on Channel 5 at 3 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 1. The performance will be staged by Dr. Stanley Chapple of the University of Washington, and will feature Joann Davies and William Goleke.

Another KING-TV highlight is New Year's Day hour-long "Year End News Review." This will begin at 4.30 p.m.

At 4 p.m. New Year's Day the top U.S. sports events of the past year will be seen on Channel 5.

Monday, Jan. 2, the Rose Bowl parade will be seen "live" from 8.45 to 10.45 a.m. Ten minutes later Channel 5 will switch to carry a "live" telecast of the Sugar Bowl game between the University of Pittsburgh and Georgia Tech.

Record Production By Canada's Mines

$200 Million Above Last Year's Figure; Big Expansion Plans

By FORBES RUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canada's mining industry brought at least $1,700,000,000 of new wealth out of the ground in 1955—a record production, more than $200,000,000 above last year.

It employed about 130,000 people with a payroll of $475,000,000 and indirectly contributed to the pay envelopes of everyone.

It was a vital drive in making 1955 Canada's most prosperous year and, with world and home demand showing every sign of increasing, promises increasing fortune to Canadians in future.

In 15 years production has increased in value by nearly $1,000,000,000, while 50 years ago it was worth only $70,000,000.

NEW CONTRIBUTORS

Most spectacular 1955 developments were in iron ore, uranium and oil—all relatively recent comers as substantial contributors to the national treasure chest—and copper.

Iron Ore Company of Canada, whose $250,000,000 Quebec-Labrador operation went into production last year, produced 8,300,000 tons of iron ore and shipped 7,721,694 tons. Steel Rock Iron Mines in northwestern Ontario shipped 2,265,355 tons, up about 1,000,000 tons from last year, and has a 1956 objective of 3,250,000 tons. First shipments came from Mar-mora in eastern Ontario.

Total production, including Bell Island in Newfoundland and Ontario's Algoma area, will be about 15,000,000 tons. Exports may exceed $90,000,000 compared with $35,000,000 last year.

International Nickel Company's new $19,000,000 plant for extraction of the iron content from nickel-copper ores will go into production in 1956 at Copper Cliff, Ont.

Steel Company of Canada, Hamilton and Pickands, Mather and Company, Cleveland, will spend $16,000,000 to reopen an old iron mine at Bristol in Pontiac county, Quebec.

Texada Mines in British Columbia will ship 260,000 tons to Japan in the next eight months.

PLAN BIG PROJECTS

Meantime a number of companies have large projects on the boards for further development of the vast iron-ore reserves of northern Quebec and Labrador.

In uranium, Gunbar Mines in the Beaverlodge area of Saskatchewan and Pronto Uranium Mines in Ontario's Blind River district, went into production. These companies, along with Algon Uranium Mines and Consolidated Denison Mines, both at Blind River, and Bicroft Uranium Mines in Ontario's

Bancroft area, have contracts with the federal government for delivery of $556,915,000 worth of uranium concentrates by 1962.

Uranium production in 1955 is estimated at $48,000,000 compared with $6,000,000 at the end of the war. It is expected to reach $180,000,000 yearly by 1958.

Oil and natural gas, though becoming almost old stories, were probably most spectacular of all. Western oil production was up nearly one-third at more than 120,000,000 barrels, about half of Canada's current needs, and the industry spent $400,000,000 in search and development.

EXPORTS WAY UP

Expanding markets developed in the United States Pacific Northwest, St. Paul and Great Lakes areas and exports were about $35,000,000 compared with $6,000,000 in 1954.

The West's growing natural gas reserves now are estimated at 16,500,000,000 cubic feet.

Peace River gas has a market on the west coast and the United States Pacific Northwest and a $142,000,000, 650-mile pipeline is being built to deliver it. The proposed $350,000,000 natural-gas pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada cleared some hurdles but others remain.

Copper was boosted by steeply rising prices, a world scarcity and the prospect of high demand.

Old workings are being revived in Newfoundland: a $40,000,000 development, complete with the new town of Murdochville, started production in Quebec's Gaspé peninsula; the Manitowadge area of Ontario headed toward production; and the coffers of such major producers as International Nickel, Noranda Mines and Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting were enriched by high world prices.

HUGE NICKEL OUTPUT

International Nickel, which doubles as Canada's largest copper producer and the world's largest nickel producer, probably will exceed last year's nickel production of 282,000,000 pounds. Sherritt Gordon Mines' new nickel-copper property at Lynn Lake, Man., got up to a nickel-production rate of about 20,000,000 pounds.

New Brunswick went into lead-zinc production amid predictions that the province may be on the threshold of its greatest expansion as a result of mineral developments in its north. A complete metallurgical and chemical industry and a $125,000,000 plant are envisaged.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, Canada's largest lead-zinc producer at Trail and Kimberley in British Columbia, is completing a huge modernization and expansion program. The Quebec asbestos industry increased production amid a $70,000,000 expansion. Frobisher-Ventures interests propose an initial expenditure of $50,000,000 on the Nass river as part of a power and metallurgical project in northwestern British Columbia. If international complications are cleared away, it may run to an ultimate $700,000,000.

ALUMINUM INDUSTRY The aluminum industry, considered an associate of mining but not part of it because its mineral, bauxite, comes from abroad, continued to expand. Aluminum Company of Canada recently announced immediate expansion of its Quebec production by 22,000 tons to 569,000 tons yearly; and is expanding its production at Kitimat, B.C., from the initial 91,500 tons to 151,500.

Gold, discouraged in recent years but cheered a bit this year by return of the Canadian dollar toward par with the American, will show increased production. A long list of other minerals reported increased output and a variety of newer minerals of the nuclear age grew in prominence. Coal, lead and silver were among the few reporting decreases.

As new ventures developed, new towns were established and mining roads, highways and railways pushed back the frontier to bring out the new wealth and give easier access for the explorer, prospector and developer. Canadian National Railways is building a $75,000,000 288-mile line into Quebec's Chibougamau from two directions, and both it and Canadian Pacific Railway opened lines into Manitowadge in northwestern Ontario.

'Unloved' Daughter of Divorcees Spends 3-Day Christmas in Store

DAVENPORT, Iowa (UP)—A spirit of holiday forgiveness went out today to the 16-year-old girl who hid in a department store over the Christmas holidays and stole a $600 "dream" wardrobe.

She will even be allowed to keep some of the finery she picked out during the three nights and two days she spent roaming the deserted store, living on candy and cookies from the counters.

Her father, a 43-year-old baker from nearby Moline, Ill., comforted the tearful girl at the juvenile home.

She sobbed "I didn't think you'd want to see me after what happened."

But the father assured her that he wants her back as soon as possible and that her Christmas presents are waiting for her under the tree.

A spokesman for the M. L. Parker department store said it would not prosecute.

Lynn wandered into the department store late Saturday because she felt lonely and unloved by her divorced parents.

Bells of Bow Need Money

LONDON (Reuters)—The old London church linked with Dick Whittington, St. Mary-le-Bow, is appealing for £150,000 so that its bells may ring again.

Its peals, silenced by Nazi bombs, dropped during an air raid in May, 1941, date back to the Middle Ages.

It is the curfew bell of Bow which is mentioned in "Oranges and Lemons," the English nursery rhyme about the church bells of London.

"I'm sure I don't know, says the big bell of Bow."

It was the curfew bell which, in the year 1374, was heard by the legendary Dick Whittington and brought him back to be thrice Lord Mayor of London and a pantomime hero for centuries to come.

About 1605 Londoners were known as "Bow Bell Cockneys" to distinguish them from other "cockneys," the contemptuous term used by the landed aristocracy and squires for those who dwell in large towns.

In 1617, Minshew, the lexicographer, recorded that "cockney" applied only to persons born within sound of Bow bell.

According to this, no cockneys have been born in London for more than 14 years—not, indeed, can any be born until the broken bells are recast and rung, and their voices rise once more above the din of the traffic along Champs-Élysées.

RELATIVELY CLOSE Mars will swing about as close to earth in 1956 as it ever comes—roughly 35,000,000 miles.

French Voting System Switch Designed to Block Communists

Editor's note: France's electoral system bears almost no resemblance to voting in the United States or Britain. There are no primaries as such, and even in the general elections voters sometimes find they are casting ballots for a party or bloc of smaller parties rather than an individual candidate. The result has been chaotic sometimes and has resulted in France's having 21 governments since the Second World War. The following dispatch explains the complicated system and some proposed reforms.

PARIS (UP)—Present system:

Voters in each of France's 90 departments (political divisions similar to counties or states) vote for a party list of candidates rather than individual candidates. There are as many candidates for each party as there are department seats in the National Assembly. If one party gets more than half the votes it gets all the seats—but this rarely happens because France has 12 major political parties and as many lesser ones.

If no party wins a majority, the seats are divided according to the proportion of votes each party receives. But the parties are allowed to get together and pool their candidates and votes.

Proposed system: Each department would be divided into one-candidate districts. Each party would put up one candidate. If no candidate got more than half the votes on this primary ballot, a second ballot would be held a week later. Also-rans would be encouraged to drop out.

France used this system between the two world wars. Former premier Pierre Mendes-France is pushing for its return because it gives voters a chance to vote for an individual. It also would help Mendes-France put up his own men in each district.

Ex-premier Edgar Faure backed neither system because his supporters are evenly divided on the subject. He wanted to leave it to the deputies to decide which system they want. However Faure is opposed to the alliance system, unpopular with the voters who find their votes for one party being thrown to another.

The alliance system was an artificial measure to reduce the number of Communist and extreme right (Gaullist) deputies in the assembly. It worked. There were 183 Communist deputies in the 1946-51 assembly, only 94 in the present one.

The only way to keep the present system without alliance and still hold down the number of Communists is for France's smaller parties to get together to the extent of running a common list of candidates.

This is possible in the United

Khrushchev Reiterates Bomb Threat

'People... Trying to Increase Tension... Should Remember'

Just More Propaganda, Says London

By STANLEY PRIDDLE

LONDON (Reuters) — Western diplomats here view today's Moscow speeches of Marshal Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev as further shots in the campaign the Kremlin is waging to inflame anti-Western feeling throughout Asia.

This view is maintained despite denials by the Soviet prime minister and Communist party minister that one of their aims during their recent Asian tour was to promote hatred of the Western powers.

The Soviet leaders' repetition before the Supreme Soviet today, of many of the bitter anti-British statements they made in Asia may well reopen the efforts recently made by some political and press quarters here to stop a scheduled visit by the two leaders here in April.

The charge by Khrushchev that Britain had "robbed India by perpetuating poverty, famine and ignorance" will be especially resented here where there is popular pride in Britain's grant of independence to the country in 1947.

Bulganin's view that 1955 marked the turning point in the relaxation of world tension is not shared here. British officials maintain that the Soviet leaders have themselves deliberately prevented translation of the "Geneva spirit" into greater East-West co-operation by the opening of new cold war fronts in Asia and the Middle East.

DULLES RIDICULED FOR GOA STATEMENT

MOSCOW (UP)—Nikita Khrushchev addressing the Supreme Soviet ridiculed U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' support of Portugal on the province of Goa. He recalled that America was once a colony.

"If we were to follow Mr. Dulles' record, the United States would consider herself Her Majesty's dominion," he said.

The huge audience of 1,400 deputies rocked with laughter. The audience included U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen.

Quints Party With 'Adviser'

Row With Family Now Said To Be Teapot Tempest; Plan Early Visit

MONTREAL (BUP)—The surviving Dionne quintuplets today emphatically denied they had broken with their family and said they will go home to straighten out a misunderstanding with their parents.

YOUNG HOODS DEMONSTRATE

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Fifteen youths staged a demonstration at police headquarters early today to protest the arrest of another youth for failing to appear in police court on a motor vehicle charge.

The band of young hoodlums loitered around the police station for about half an hour demanding to know why their friend had been arrested. Police broke up the demonstration.

The four girls said through a spokesman that although they have been criticized by papa Dionne for renting a two-bedroom apartment and apparently "living it up" in Montreal, their parents had met and approved their friends.

"The girls completely and emphatically deny breaking with their family," L. M. Edwards, their spokesman and local manager of a trust company that handles their million-dollar fortune, said in an interview.

"They have authorized me to say they would like to be able to sit down with their family and straighten this whole thing out. They want it known that the whole thing is a tempest in a teapot."

The quintuplets' version of what had been widely reported as family troubles was relayed by Edwards, who said he was "closer to them than anyone else in Montreal," after newspaper and radio reports said they had decided to step out in their newly-found independence and ignore papa Dionne's pleas to go home.

It was learned today, however, that the reports were only partly right.

MISUNDERSTANDING

The trouble started at Christmas when Annette and Marie joined Yvonne and Cecile, who are student nurses, at an apartment they rented here in another girl's name in November.

Edwards said that because the quintuplets were "very close" to each other the two who are not studying at L'Esperance hospital here decided to stay with the others who were working "instead of going home to Callander, Ont., and leaving their sisters spending the holiday feeling lonely."

He said they had no intention of upsetting their parents by doing that, and that they let their parents know their plans before the holiday.

Three of the girls will go home instead for the New Year's holiday, which is observed more gaily by French-speaking Canadians than is Christmas.

Marie, the fourth quint, will not go home because she feels the trip would be too tiring after her recent stay in hospital.

Edwards said they also wanted to deny reports that papa and mama Dionne were sore at the quintuplets because they were having a gay time here with boys and were being hard to get along with concerning their money.

"Nothing could be farther from the truth," he said.

BROTHERS QUOTED

The girls' relayed comment about money came as a Toronto newspaper quoted their brothers Daniel, Olivia, Jr., and Victor as saying trouble "with the intruders" whom papa Dionne blamed for alienating their affections "started just before the quintuplets came into their money and got worse ever since."

The brothers were reported as saying their father was "sick with worry" over the situation and got only two hours sleep during the Christmas weekend.

Edwards, who has known the girls for six months—since his company sent him from Ottawa to manage its Montreal office—said he couldn't understand what "intruders" Dionne had in mind. "It certainly doesn't refer to me," he said.

The girls were reported in Montreal newspapers today to have thrown a party in their (Continued on Page 2)

WASHINGTON (AP)—A heavy majority of Republican leaders say they believe President Eisenhower will run for a second term next November.

As Eisenhower flew to Key West, Fla., to continue his convalescence from his Sept. 24 heart attack, The Associated Press reported on a poll of 134 Republican governors, state chairmen, national committee men and national committee women. They were asked:

"Do you believe Eisenhower will run again?"

Seventy-seven said yes; 19 said they believe he will run if he has sufficiently recovered from his heart attack; 17 said no, and 21 had no opinion.

In the poll, a second question dealt with who might be most likely to win the Republican presidential nomination if Eisenhower decided not to run.

Most of those polled, having already said they thought Eisenhower would run, did not dwell on the "if not" problem.

However, 10 said they thought Vice-President Nixon had the best chance to get the nomination in the absence of Eisenhower's willingness to take it again.

Radar Speed Check Begins on Island

SOON TO BE A FIXTURE

Radar warning signs soon may become a permanent fixture on Island highways. RCMP warn checks may become regular in effort to stop speeders.

LAST-MINUTE CHECK of radar equipment used in today's test on Trans-Canada Highway near Thetis Lake overpass is made by RCMP officers Inspector W. Butler and Staff Sergeant M. Lock, at headquarters.

TOLD TO 'TURN COLLAR OVER'

Port Alberni Dutch Pastor Ousted for 'Many Defects'

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (BUP) — A Dutch minister, brought to Canada to serve a community of New Canadians, has been ousted from the church.

The Rev. E. J. C. Verbeek, a minister of the Dutch Reformed Church, was brought to Canada to serve the first Christian Reformed Church at Port Alberni.

He was forced from the church on a charge of "personality weakness" and "attempts to schism" in the first case of its kind in over 100 years in the Reformed Church.

Verbeek and his wife arrived here from Holland last July. Less than a month later, members of the small lumbering community's congregation brought charges of unsound doctrine, trouble-making and untruthfulness (or presbytery).

The classes (or presbytery) of the church at Vancouver decided the new pastor was unfit to serve in the church and fired him in November. However, details of Verbeek's ousting were only made public Wednesday.

Verbeek who while attached to the Dutch church here was receiving $3,800 a year plus a house, phone and water, now lives in a small cabin in a Port Alberni auto court.

Members of the 181-member Port Alberni congregation were ready to heap coals of fire upon Verbeek's head. One member, Jan Boer said Verbeek made a mess of everything. Another, Jan's mother, Mrs. V. Boer, added "everything was wrong with him."

The clerk of the five-man governing board, Siebe Hoeckstra remarked that the ousted pastor had trouble with everyone, didn't teach what the church taught and had personal defects.

The Rev. C. Schoolland, a member of the "classes" which governs the church, said the church offered to pay Verbeek two months' salary, fly him and his wife and furniture back to Holland, and then pay him 500 guilders a month for three months in the old country.

But he refused it flat and resigned from the church completely. So now he not only is not a minister, but he is not a member of the church.

"Verbeek was unfit to be a minister. He was trying to bust up our church... he was schismatic... we told him to turn his collar over... that was all," Schoolland said.

Mr. Verbeek said today, "I was too severe" in relation to his parishioners. Regarding Mr. Schoolland's reported offer he said, "This is not right. It applied only if I agreed with them."

Mr. Verbeek termed the church's action "very undemocratic and very un-Christian." Of the church itself he said, "They are afraid of me." He did not elaborate.

The 27-year-old former minister had a church of his own in Amsterdam.

First Test Held Near Over-Pass

First radar speed check on Vancouver Island highways was held this afternoon on the new Trans-Canada Highway outlet near Thetis Lake overpass.

Motorists were being checked by a radar unit operated by RCMP officers from Victoria headquarters.

Other traffic officials and reporters were onlookers as the unit plotted the speed of passing cars on a meter and a graph.

It was the initial use of the $1,500 equipment on Island roads to check on speeders.

The units are used extensively in the United States and are in operation at various points across Canada.

GREAT AID

RCMP say the psychological effect on motorists is a great aid in cutting down the number of speeders, and cautioned that the equipment may become a moveable check on main Island roads.

Three compact pieces of equipment make a unit. A box containing the actual radar equipment and an antenna is set near the road. Radar beams go across the road and the speed of a car passing through them is recorded on a registering box.

The registering box may either sit on the dashboard of a central car or hang from the rear view mirror attachment. The car may be concealed behind trees or other obstacles.

When an offending vehicle passes through the radar beam, word is flashed to a waiting patrol car or motorcycle in advance of the speeding vehicle.

The waiting patrolman flags down the guilty driver and issues a speeding ticket.

190 Aspirins Fed to Boys, Both Survive

NEW YORK (AP) — A 40-year-old mother fed her two young sons 190 aspirin tablets Wednesday night following a quarrel with her husband, police said, but frantically summoned help when their suffering wrenched her heart.

The two children, Bruce Blackwell, 8, and Keith, 6, were taken to hospital in serious condition. They were reported improving today.

Police quoted the mother, Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell as saying that she planned to take her own life after the children died.

She told officers she fed each of the children 95 aspirin tablets and that they lapsed into comas. Soon they appeared to be suffering terribly, she said, and she couldn't stand it any longer. She called police and begged for help.
